Residents say chop development, not trees

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Residents of the Woods of Antioch, unhappy that the "woods" have been killed off in their neighborhood, are rallying around one 160-year-old oak they hope to save as an historic landmark of sorts.

Before the board of directors of the Village of Antioch, resident Debbie Prather read a letter composed with the help of several neighbors to make a case for the tree. "We have learned in the past two weeks that a home is going to be built right up next to this tree," she read. "We know from the experience of all the old trees dying along our main entrance on Wood Creek Dr. that this tree does not have a fighting chance if this home is built."

A tree expert estimated the tree's age on behalf of the neighborhood's residents who formed an association earlier this spring. Prather pointed out that the tree is older than all of the historic buildings in Antioch including the old school that is now the Lakes Region Historical Society, as well as the church purchased by the society for its preservation.

Trustee Dorothy Larson said, "I would love to find a solution. KLM (the developer) has already met their park requirement and then some. I'm concerned that we would set a precedent for other neighborhoods."

Mayor Taso Maravelas said he and Larson had spent considerable time going through all the ordinances since 1990. The only provision is that trees a certain size or larger must be replaced if taken down, and that does not help this tree.

Resident Mike Ray said that seven trees were lost on his property, and that they were costly to remove. Barry McMahon, a representative of KLM, said the developer picked up the cost of $31,000 to remove the seven oaks. Ray contended he still had several bills to pay from the trees' loss and removal.

According to the residents, KLM told them they would be notified if anyone expressed interest in building by the tree. McMahon said, "Over six months ago, closer to 8 or 9 months ago, we went to Mrs. (Sue) Pingel and told them that these lots were available for $60,000 per lot."

McMahon also said KLM was hiring a professional arborist to try to preserve the tree. "I can't say that this tree will live," he conceded. He also said someone has expressed interest in the second lot.

Prather said, "I think it's a question of the developer doing the right thing."

Village attorney Donald Anderson said, "The only thing to do is find a benefactor to buy the lot (the second lot), and promise not to build on it."

Pingel and Prather maintain that preventing building on the second lot isn't enough to ensure the fate of the tree, and both contended that the buyer under contract had at first seemed willing to take a different lot and there was an attitude change after talking with the developer.

"That offer is on the table (to move to a different lot), and she doesn't want it," said McMahon.

"I don't think there's anything we can do," said Maravelas. Larson added, "Anyone can make a situation suit their needs. My concern, sitting on this board, is setting a precedent. The developer has the right to build the house there."

Center construction starts

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The groundbreaking ceremony for the tentatively named Antioch-Lake Villa Center, a facility being jointly constructed by Antioch Township, Lake Villa Township and Antioch Community High School Dist. 117 (ACHS), will be held at 5 p.m. on Aug. 24 at the site located on the northeast corner of Deep Lake and Grass Lake roads. The office of Rep. Tim Osmond (R-Antioch), who has worked with the three entities to plan the building, made the announcement.

The location is on the north end of the site where a second high school is being constructed by ACHS. The school district is providing about two acres of land for the facility and will extend the utilities from the second high school to the center.

Osmond secured $900,000 in funding through the Illinois First Program earmarked for Antioch and Lake Villa townships to assist with the construction of the building. Antioch Township has plans to sell its current building and use the proceeds to offset some of the construction costs of the center. Lake Villa will also add to the kitty.

"I'm impressed with the willingness of the school district to provide land to the project and to extend utilities from the second high school in the district for the center," said Osmond.

When complete, the center will house the administrative offices for ACHS and the Antioch Township offices. There will be a large area for senior citizen and community programs, and it will be the site for the Meals on Wheels program for Northwest Lake County, though the Antioch Senior Center will still operate the Meals on Wheels program for Antioch.

"The area of the property where the center will be located was originally scheduled to be developed as a recreation area for both the school and the community," said Dennis Hockney, superintendent of ACHS. "When the idea of a partnership was first proposed by Rep. Osmond, the district offered to provide the property, and the townships indicated a willingness to share Illinois First funds. The fact that we have a positive relationship among the three of us was particularly helpful."

Antioch Township Supervisor Steve Smouse added, "It's rewarding to be part of a group that has planned a building that will serve both the high school, the township and the senior citizens of the area."

The projected completion date is slated for late spring 2002.

"The three have worked with the architect and the construction manager as well as each other. They have developed a plan that addresses the needs of not only the school and townships, but also for the citizens of the area, especially seniors," said Osmond. "Now that plans are finalized, construction can begin."

Board ends open checkbook policy

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

It takes more than a grant to move a scout house, and though the board of directors of the Village of Antioch approved joining forces with the Antioch Public Library to move the Scout House when the library began working on expansion, some of the bills have come as a surprise to village trustees.

What the board did approve was to share the costs of the move with the library fifty-fifty. Complaints voiced from the trustees were for a lack of bids of various services, and no one overseeing the entire project and its costs.

"So far we've paid $64,000 to move the Scout House," said Trustee Scott Pierce. "We don't even know if all the bills are in yet."

Trustee Larry Hanson expressed the need for the village board to be accountable to Antioch residents. "We owe it to the taxpayers to know what is going on," he said. "There was not one bid on this whole project."

Discussion turned to what was referred to as the "open checkbook policy" of the previous administration on certain projects, and it was noted by Hanson that both he and Trustee Barbara Porch had, at various times, had difficulty finding out exact costs of certain village projects.

"There's a new roof on the building," added Hanson. "Where did the money come for that?"

Porch said the board had determined it didn't have the money to make improvements to the house so that the parks department could make it its office. "You're paying for all those things now," said Mike

Haley, village administrator. He added that the Schroeder family donated a $20,000 grant.

Mayor Taso Maravelas said it should be a goal of the board to end that open policy, and become a the-buck-stops-here board.

While the dollar amount of certain bills is in question by the board, the board did not want to put a halt on the project until the issue is resolved. "We agreed to do this," said Trustee Dorothy Larson.

Hanson added, "Our concern is to make sure this never happens again."

The Scout House, moved to Cunningham Dr., should be open for Girl and Boy Scouts use by the first of September. The rededication ceremony is scheduled for Sept. 23 at 3 p.m.

Wetland issues are now resolved, new high school construction to begin

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Permits for the construction of the new high school had hit a snag earlier this year as the result of a U.S. Supreme Court ruling about the management of wetlands, and which ones fall under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Army Corp of Engineers.

According to Supt. Dennis

Hockney, the snag has been cleared and the board of education for Antioch Community High School Dist. 117 (ACHS) authorized entering into an agreement with Ipsen Development to grade two acres of wetlands at a cost of $108,150 in preparation for the new high school.

Bids will come in on Aug. 30 for the site work and foundation. This work should begin in September. On Oct. 18, bids will be received for the site utilities and the structural steel.

"A large portion of the bidding will come in on Nov. 20," said Hockney. This bid will include the building shell, interior, plumbing, mechanical, electrical, fire protection finished site work and landscaping.

The new school and the tentatively named Antioch-Lake Villa Center will be located on the northeast corner of Deep Lake and Grass Lake roads in Lake Villa.

Scout House to be rededicated Sept. 23

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts will be able to move their activities back to the Scout House in the first part of September after being without an official meeting place for several months. A rededication ceremony is scheduled for Sept. 23 at 3 p.m. at the scout house now located on Cunningham Drive near the Gage Brothers park and Hiram Butterick Sawmill.

"It was the Schroeder grant that was given to the village to move and improve the Scout House that allowed this to happen," said Linda Veach, committee member and advancement chair of Boy Scout Troop 92. "We are very thankful to the Schroeder family (of Antioch)."

Formerly, the Scout House was considered to be part of Williams Park and was situated north of the Antioch Public Library. The Schroeders donated money so the landmark could be moved and improved when the library made plans to expand.

Improvements to the Scout House include a full-size basement with handicapped accessible bathrooms for both genders, central heat and air conditioning and the restroom upstairs was made larger and also handicapped accessible. "They haven't gotten to the repainting, but some will be done," Veach added.

During the rededication ceremony there will be a parade of flags by Girl and Boy Scouts, guest speakers and punch and cake. "Everyone can walk around and see what a great job has been done with the Scout House," said Veach.

Even with the generous contribution made by the Schroeders, the scouts are still in need of a showcase for ribbons and plaques, small appliances (not stoves or refrigerators) and silverware for the kitchen, storage cabinets for the basement and some window treatments for the upstairs.

"The Girl Scouts (more so than the Boy Scouts) have some sleepovers upstairs," said Veach. "It's a great place for the scouts to work on their badges, or really anything where you need a nice big space."

"We're in the black and will remain in the black," said Supt. Dennis Hockney of the balanced budget. Revenues for the year are listed as $21,828,381 and expenses at $21,817,974.

"We're doing well when you look at what is happening in other districts," he added. "We've been able to expand our faculty and have wage increases."

The budget is available for review at the district office located at 800 Main St., Antioch.

ACHS remodeling on target

Remodeling for the current Antioch Community High School should be completed in October 2002, according to Supt. Dennis Hockney.

Remodeling efforts include adding air conditioning, expanding the stage, building a new music, instrumental and choral room as well as improving the girl's locker room.

Budget hearing

Emmons Dist. 33 has scheduled its public hearing for the upcoming year's budget for Sept. 18 at 7 p.m. at the school.

The tentative budget for the fiscal year that began July 1, will be on file and available for public inspection at the school office located at 24226 W. Beach Grove Rd., Antioch, after 8 a.m. on Aug. 21.

Antioch resident wins van

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Antioch resident Pamela Boyce made a big score in a contest sponsored by Jewel-Osco and the Pepsi Cola General Bottlers when she came away the winner of a brand new Honda Odyssey in the Chicago Fire Score a Van Sweepstakes.

"I don't enter a lot of contests," said Boyce. "This one, I didn't even know I was entering."

She said she was entered back in April when she used her Jewel "preferred" card and purchased Pepsi products. The computer randomly picked 50 people who met the criteria, and tickets were sent to these winners for a Chicago Fire game on June 23.

"We almost didn't go to the game," said Boyce. "My husband and I are both landscapers and we were really busy. When I told my husband we had a chance to win a minivan, we made the time to go."

At the game, Boyce was selected as one of five finalists to try to start the van during halftime. "I was the fifth person to try a key," she said. "When the fourth person's key didn't start the van, I knew I had it."

"I don't know what color it will be or what options it will have. They come pretty deluxe," Boyce said.

Verizon victorious, cell antenna approved

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

In spite of opposition by Trustee Dorothy Larson, Verizon wireless was approved to lease space on the Anita Street water tower by the board of directors of the Village of Antioch, and the mayor will sign a lease agreement.

In reviewing the lease agreement, Larson questioned the type of fencing to surround the building at the base of the tower. "We have every intention of installing wrought iron fence," said Chuck Kincaid, real estate manager for Verizon Wireless.

The lease agreement had a section for "tower compliance" that Larson questioned. "In essence, you will tell us how to maintain our tower," she said.

Kincaid answered, "We need assurance that the tower is properly maintained so that we can do what we need."

Larson's biggest opposition to the proposal is the proximity of the antenna to residential areas. Previously, Kincaid said, "We would be 107 feet about grade. This is well above whatever the risk of emissions."

Kincaid explained the need for the antenna to be placed on the Anita Street water tower. "We specifically need a location near the water tower. Going further south where the Nextel tower is won't address the situation," he said.

Trustee Barbara Porch asked, "If the Anita tower didn't exist, would you have utilized the Nextel tower?" Kincaid said, "No. That tower would not meet our needs."

Before the lease will be signed, Verizon must provide documentation of paid insurance to the village.

Church can be entertaining while providing its message

Church can be entertaining while providing its message to parishioners and others. The perfect example of that is the Lighthouse Church of Antioch and its own homespun movies.

This year as with last members of the church will be starring in feature film directed by Pastor Tom Bartmer.

"Baptistman" is the follow up to last year's "Mission Pentecost," and will premiere toward the end of September.

According to the church's newsletter, the most logistically complex scene was filmed at Antioch's Squire Restaurant after closing. It is said to include a precarious "light scene" between Baptistboy (Lance Rengel) and 80-year old Mrs. Garbunkel (Virginia Frieza).

Bartmer, who had been a film student at the University of Wisconsin in Milwaukee before answering the calling, blends his talents as a filmmaker with the evangelism of the church.

Bartmer began work on "Baptistman" as "Mission Pentecost" was making its debut with a preview for the 2001 project shown at the beginning of the movie. "Baptistman" is a take off on the Batman movies.

The Antioch community development department will be holding a meeting to plan the 2002 Antioch farmer's market on Aug. 29 at 7 p.m. in the Tod Maplethorpe community room located in the Community Building at 884 Main St.

Glenda Sorensen, community development director said different people have brought it to the attention of village officials that it would be nice to have a farmer's market in Antioch. "The merchants and residents we've spoken to are all excited about the idea," she said.

The current proposal is to have the market open from 4-8 p.m. on Thursdays. All recommendations will be taken into consideration.

Anyone interested is welcome to attend this open meeting. For information, call the community development office at 395-6342.

Celebrate Labor Day jazzercising

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Families can try a free Jazzercise workout class on Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 3 at 9 a.m. at the Red Barn located at 23 North Ave. (between Rte. 83 and Deep Lake Rd.), Antioch. The complimentary workout is part of a Jazzercise open house to show residents that getting in shape doesn't have to be painful or boring. The workout consists of movements that are said to be easy to learn and are choreographed to popular music including oldies, rock, jazz and country.

Certified Jazzercise instructor Anna Soria will lead the class. Soria is also certified through the American Council on Exercise and is a member of the American College of Sports Medicine and the International Dance and Exercise Assoc.

"Unlike other activities, Jazzercise is a program anyone can do," said Soria. "Our classes are for all ages and fitness levels."

The class will begin with a warm up, followed by aerobic conditioning, muscle toning and strengthening, flexibility exercises, stretching and finish with a cool down. "I will show students different intensities, high and low impact and modifications throughout the class so students can pick and choose the moves that work best for them whether they are beginners or veteran exercisers," said Soria.

In addition to a free workout, students can participate in a technique class prior to the workout at 8:30 a.m. Guests will receive information on the importance of exercise, nutrition and descriptions of the programs taught at the facility. These programs include the following: regular Jazzercise, step/circuit, body sculpting and personal touch.

Guests can receive 50 percent off a monthly class pass. Classes are held at the Red Barn Monday-Saturday mornings and Monday-Thursday evenings.

"I think people quit exercising for one or more of the following reasons: they get bored with what they are doing, or they don't see results because they are not properly instructed on good form and technique," said Soria. "It's not what you do, it's how you do it."

For more information, call Soria at 838-3154.

Has it only been seven days?

I thought the week my daughter's best friend was gone on vacation was a nightmare until I was confronted with the week her older sister was gone. I have a new-found respect for parents of only children. Always having a house full of children, whether they are mine, or half the neighborhoods, I was faced with some new dilemmas the week I only had one child residing under our roof. Although I find myself in constant demand when the walls are brimming with cherubs, when you only have one child to tend to, the demands are of a much different level.

When you have a house full, the demands are numerous, but short lived. They are hungry; you throw together some peanut butter sandwiches. They want to go swimming; you take the pool cover off. They want to go roller blading; you buckle their roller blades. The demand is made, the demand is met, and you go about your business.

When you have one child the demands are numerous, and also very time consuming. I am hungry and would like grilled cheese, French fries, lobster bisque, coq au vin rouge, and baked Alaska for dessert, and mom can you sit at the table with me while I push my food around my plate, chatter on about my imaginary friend, and spill my milk on the dog, three times?

With the kitchen still in total disarray, the second demand comes in: mom can you jump on the trampoline with me, then play Monopoly, Life, Checkers, Trouble, Disney

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Trivia, Operation, Dominoes, and Go Fish and then can we play Barbies? After hours of game playing and using all my creative juices to be the voices of Glitter Barbie, Campus Barbie, Princess Barbie, Doctor Barbie, Lawyer Barbie, Gymnastic Barbie, Ken and Skipper, I am ready for a nap and counting the hours, though it is days off, before the big sister returns home.

I forgot at which point I went from trying to compensate this child who had been left behind and began simply trying to amuse the lonely child.

We went to the movies, played countless rounds of miniature golf, ate ice cream for breakfast, lunch and dinner, went to the mall, had pedicures, manicures and had our hair permed, dyed, curled and crimped. I was exhausted, not to mention broke.

So thankfully the big sister, who is going to get a big increase in her allowance, comes home tomorrow, and I get my life back.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Police locked the vehicle traveling 58 mph in a 30-mph zone. Rivera showed police a school identification card. When his information was checked through LEADS information returned that there was no record on file. Rivera told police he had only been here 5 years and had not gotten a driver's license.

Rivera was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where he was put through booking procedures and issued citations for speeding, having no valid driver's license and the operation of an uninsured vehicle. He was released on personal recognizance pending his Sept. 12 court date.

John Phelps

Take the bait

The dust settles around 11 p.m. on a Saturday night. Another evening at Premier Production's Wilmot Speedway has come to a close.

Fans have flocked again to the historic speedway for another evening of food, fun and the thunderous sounds of the 410-cubic inch, 800-horsepower of Wilmot's trademark—the winged sprint cars.

"It's like one big family," said John Kassner of Round Lake Heights.

Kassner, along with his wife Patricia, have been a part of the Wilmot family for nearly 22 years. John Kassner tends the pit gates while Patricia used to work in ticket sales but has since moved to the front office.

Meanwhile, Wilmot has entertained fans, both novice and old school, for 50 years and counting.

During that stretch, fans have had a variety of shows to choose from including sprints, mini sprints, IMCA modifieds and hobby stocks. Throw in a few shows involving dwarf cars, INEX legends and MARA midjets you have quite a variety for different tastes.

According to track president and promoter Andy Calin, the biggest highlight at Wilmot over the years has been hosting a show involving the World of Outlaw Sprints.

"It's a big draw because it involves the best sprint car racers around," said Calin, who with his partner and wife Debbie took over track operations five years ago from then long-time president and promoters Ray and Joan Toft.

"We had one of our biggest crowds ever (approx. 4,000). Tickets booths were three-deep. The Outlaws started the Gumout Series in 1999 and we were one of the first to go after it. Our first show was last year, the second last month. We're confident we can possibly host two shows a year in the near future."

Gurnee's Mike Babicz has also inherited his share of exciting memories as 'the voice of Wilmot' for the past 20-plus years.

"It's been great getting to know all of the drivers," he said. "We've had a lot of great ones here, from old-school to the younger guys. And having a local guy (Johnsburg's Dave Moulis) winning the two Outlaw Sprint events is definitely at the top of my highlight list."

Other standout performances fans have been treated to this year included Beach Park's Brian Kristan scoring the sweep, which included posting the lowest qualifying time followed by winning his heat race and the 'A' Main feature.

"I think that's the first time we've had somebody do that in at least seven years," added Babicz. "You never know out here. One thing for sure, there's a lot of good drivers and plenty of excitement. And they're all very supportive of each other."

Even the novice fans have felt the warmth when attending Wilmot.

"We had a 60-year-old woman out here for the first time and she loved it," echoed Andy Calin. "I think for the value, this is one of the best tickets around. If we can get you here once, chances are, you'll want to come back."

It's sentiments such as this that make Wilmot Speedway the family that it is, from the staff all the way down to the drivers.

Congratulations to Libertyville's Michael Schachner, who fired rounds of 71-77 to win the 2001 Illinois Junior Golf Association Tournament of Champions. Schachner, who will be a junior at LHS this fall, finished in second-place in the Player of The Year point standings. Kevin Wall, also of Libertyville fired rounds of 78-76 to finish sixth.

New-look Sequoits ready to rumble in NSC Lake

By JOE PRUSKI
Lakeland Correspondent

The start of the new football season for the Antioch Sequoits will introduce many new faces to go along with a new offensive style and look.

The Sequoits, who have been on top of the North Suburban Conference (NSC) in passing the last two years with the likes of Don Lackey and Brandon White, will show a more powerful, experienced backfield to go along with a bigger line in Saturday's first game when it plays host to Niles West at 1 p.m.

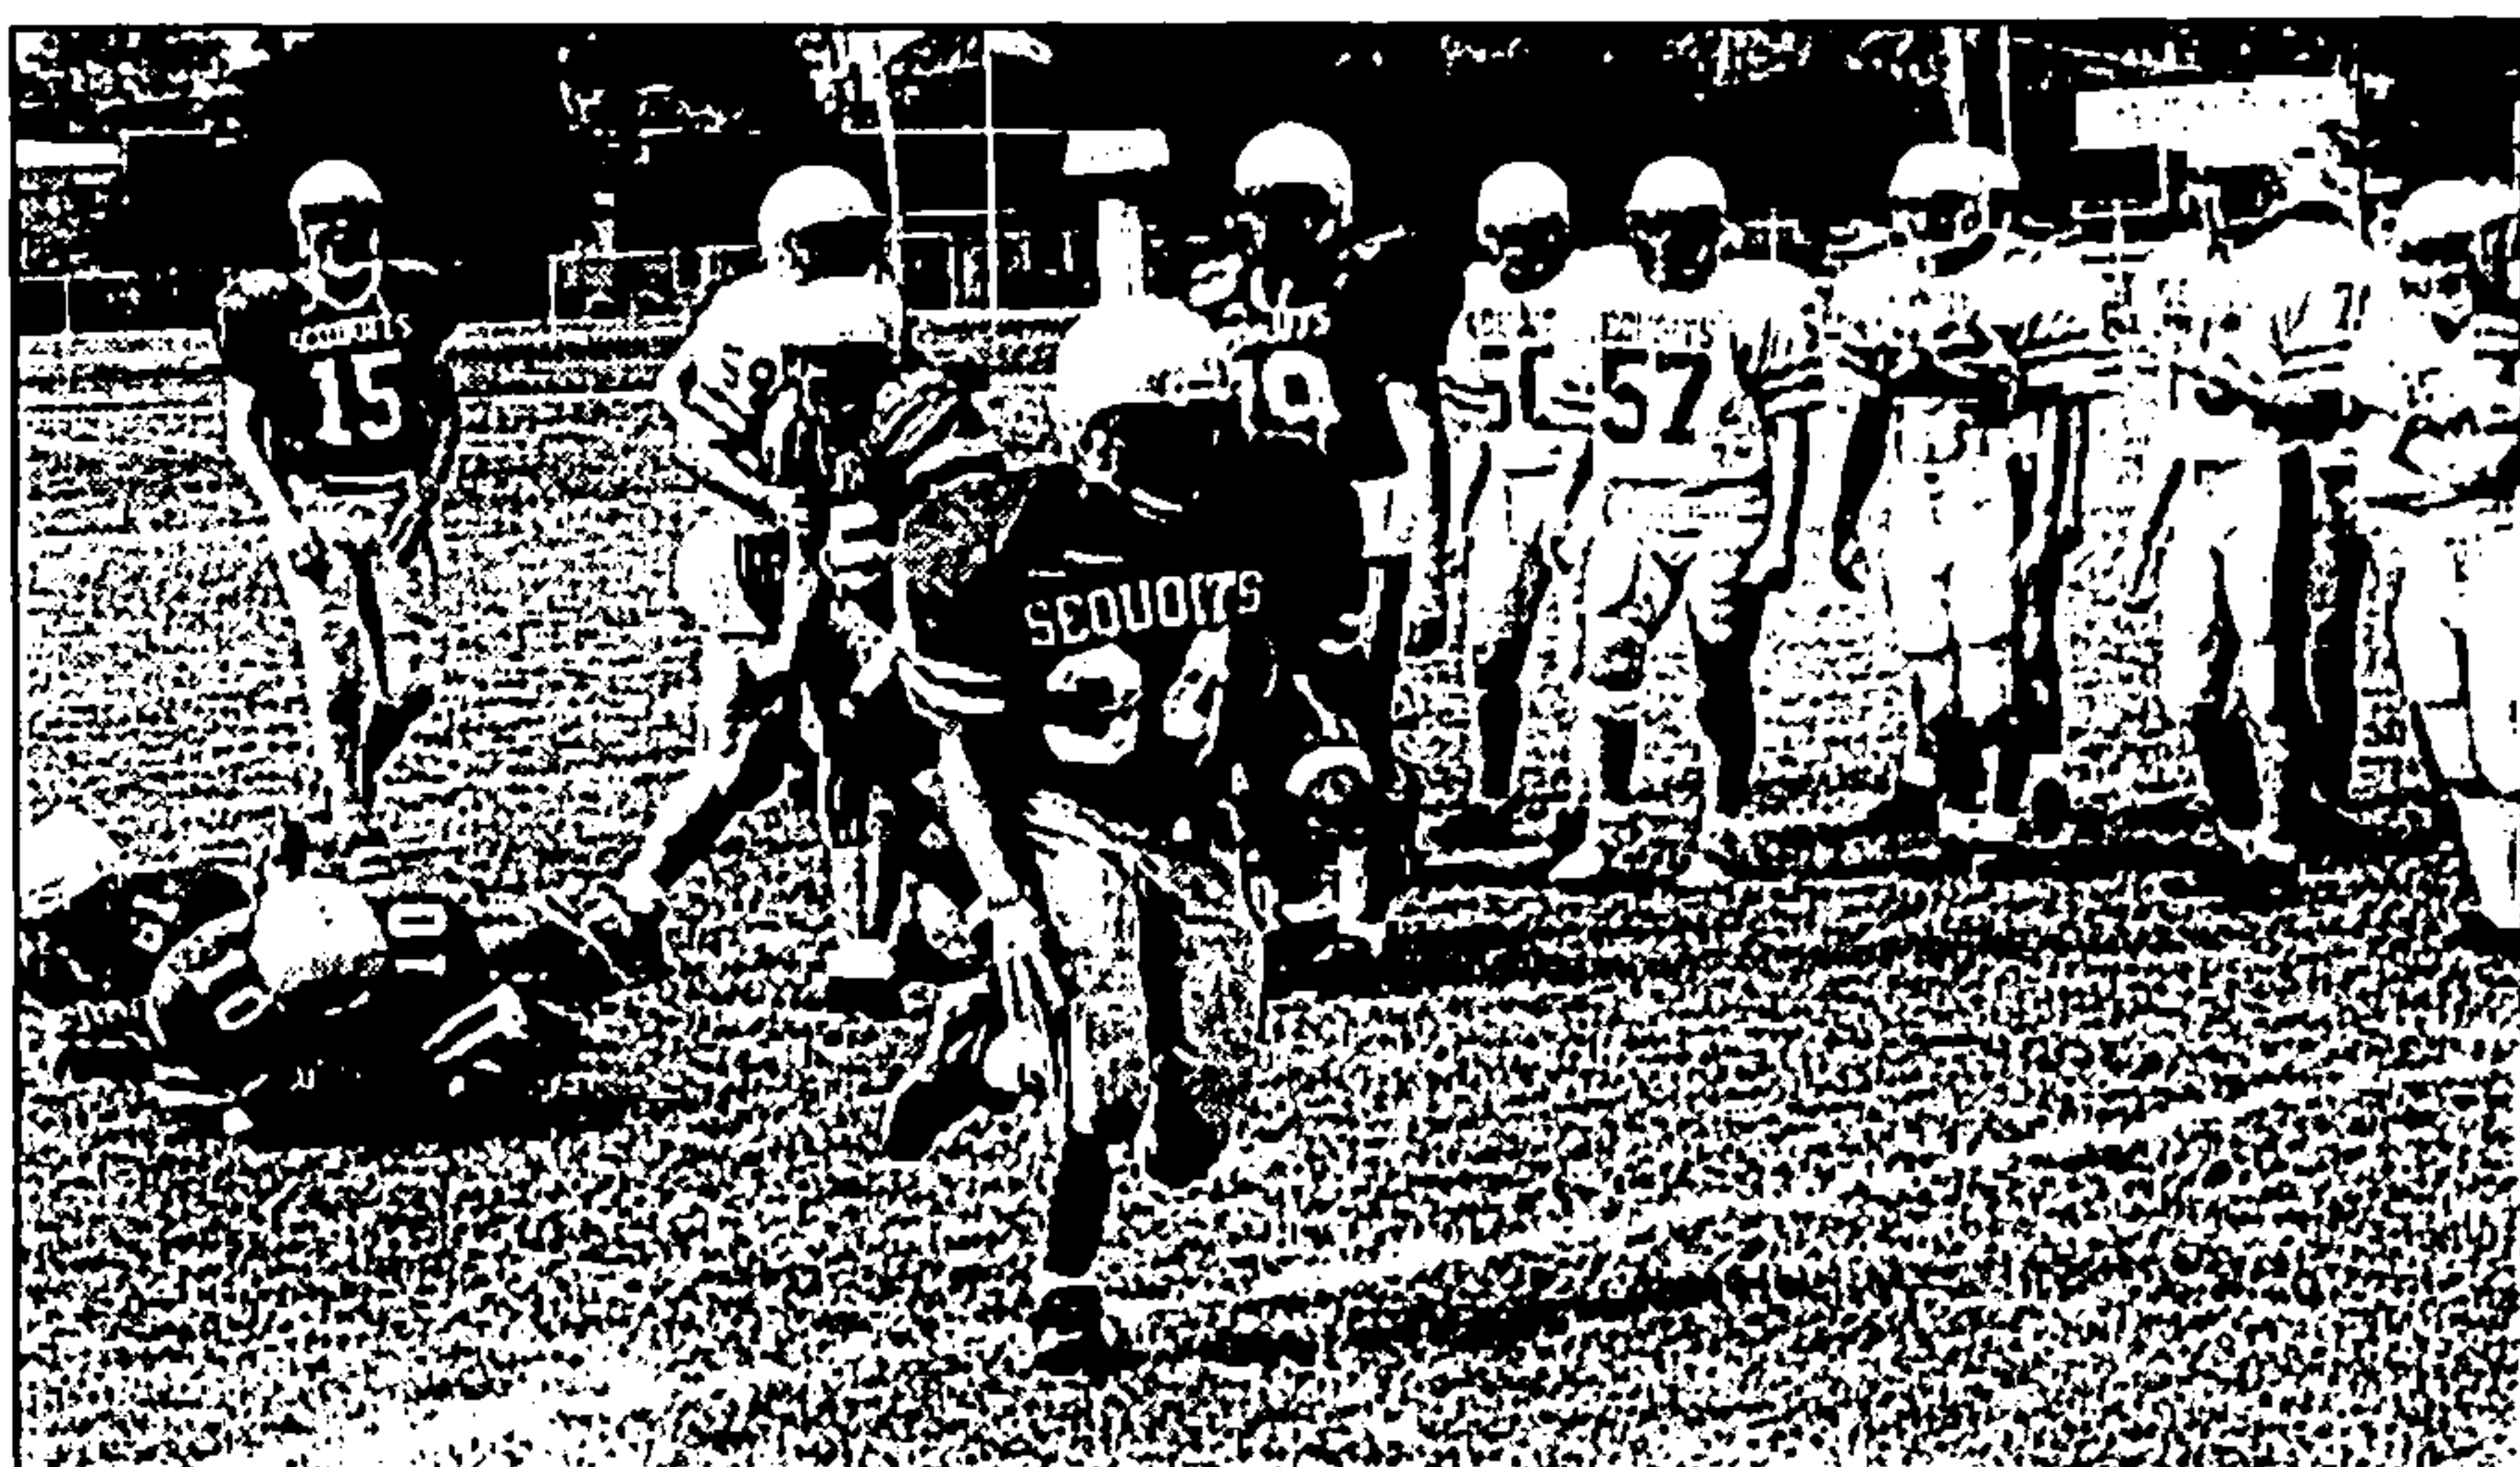

The backfield for Antioch will consist of a variety of players ranging from the quicker, speedier Allen Patin to the more powerful runners such as Dan Miodonski. Jeremy Hall and Scott Gehrke, who will be playing both ways for the Sequoits this season, will hold the fullback position. Clearing the way for the running game will be an offensive line that head coach Del Pechauer believes is very capable of producing this season.

"Our offensive line is a little bigger this year and a little more experienced," said Pechauer.

Senior P.J. Hilbert will be taking the snaps for Antioch with junior quarterback Brad Hoogerhyde backing him up.

"He (Hilbert) is our leader," said Pechauer. "I don't anticipate any problems at quarterback."

With the addition of strength and experience from tackle to tackle this season Antioch has found an early weakness at the skill positions. Much of the reason has to do with the fact that talent such as Eric White and Ari Brown aren't exactly easy to find every year. Pechauer feels that the losses of Josh Bouchard and Scott Hodina on defense and Brandon White, Mark Purnell, Eric White, and Brown on offense be the tough spots to fill this season.

As for Niles West, they come into Saturday's game also more experienced and looking to improve on a 5-4 record from last year.

"They (Niles West) was a junior dominated team last year," said Pechauer. "We expect them to be a lot better this year."

This will be the first-ever between Niles West and Antioch. Prior to the start of the game, ACHS will pay tribute to former offensive line coach Jerry Pankauskas, who passed away last winter.

Antioch makes Waves at North Central Illinois swim meet

The Antioch Waves swim team, coached by Michael McDonnell and Kirsten Ihlen brought home a boat load of medals as the swimmers fought hard to stay in the top-10 in their conference, finishing in 10th-place. The Waves competed against outstanding swim clubs from DeKalb County YMCA, Rockford YMCA, McHenry, Dundee, Cary, Geneva, Elgin, Woodstock, Trails of Algonquin, Oswego, Plus Grove and Crystal Lake. This is probably the strongest team of Antioch has seen in years. "Having strong swimmers in each age group is a real plus, and we had that this year. It's nice when you don't have to age up a swimmer," said Antioch Waves Parent Board President Cathy Leafblad. "We're really hoping to have as good of a team, if not better next year. We're really excited, as we're getting a new timing system for the pool. We have been saving for this ever since I have become active with this team. So for many of us, this will be the highlight of our summer."

Cathy Leafblad said anyone interested in swimming with the Antioch Waves swim team next summer should call 623-1154 for information. Highlights from the NCI meet include:

Legends finish third

The Legends, Lake Villa's 13-year-old travel team, wrapped up their summer season by finishing third in the American Amateur Baseball Congress State Tournament (AABC) held in Glenview. First-round action saw the Legends defeat the North Shore Bandits 2-0. In second-round play, the Legends lost to the Highwood Braves. Third-round action saw the Legends dominate league champion Wauconda Lakes, 8-2. In the fourth-round, the Legends lost to the eventual tournament champion, the Niles Renegades.

Then, in a heated battle for third-place, the Legends defeated the Glenview Storm 11-7. The third-place finish was a moral victory for the Legends as they were the only 13-year-old team in a tournament predominantly made up of 14-year-olds. Other highlights of this season included defeating the 14-year-old teams of Antioch, Gurnee, Libertyville, Vernon Hills and Gagewood. The Legends also defeated the rival Antioch 13-year-olds twice in tournament play.

The Legends roster included Kyle Freeman, Brandon Geweke, Timmy Hansen, Brian Hendricks, Nick Pietka, Scott Schem, Jake Thorsteins, Adam Worthington and Micah Yarbrough. The team was managed by Jeff Pietka and coached by Marty Geweke, Bob Yarbrough and Ed Hendricks.

The Legends will begin their fall season in September and continue playing into the month of October. Tryouts for next year's team will be held Sept. 8 and 15 at Lake Villa Baseball Park. For further information regarding fall ball or tryouts contact Jeff Pietka at 356-0214.

The Lake Villa Legends 13-year-old youth baseball team finished third in the AABC state tournament. The Legends include (in no order) Kyle Freeman, Brandon Geweke, Timmy Hansen, Brian Hendricks, Nick Pietka, Scott Schem, Jake Thorsteins, Adam Worthington and Micah Yarbrough. The team is managed by Jeff Pietka with Marty Geweke, Bob Yarbrough and Ed Hendricks serving as coaches.

Lake Villa 11s place third in districts

The Lake Villa 11-year-old All-stars finished third in districts. Highlights included Levi Tijerina's no-hitter against Grayslake. Offensively, big hitters during the District tournament included Allen Nelson (.563 batting average), Austin Grimm (.500 BA), Joey Ignoffo (.500 BA), Levi Tijerina (.529 BA) and Joel Jarres (.400 BA). The 11-year-olds also took first-place in the Lakeland Tournament.

The outfield of Aaron Cashmore, Wes McMinimy, Robbie Sheehan and Hunter Fales anchored a solid defense. Meanwhile, third baseman Joel Jarres and Nick Matkovich, shortstops Allen Nelson and Jeff Baird, pitcher-first baseman Joey Ingnoffo, first baseman

Austin Grimm, catcher Klye Kreutzer and pitcher-catcher Levi Tijerina held the opponents in check after the first-inning.

Offensively, Hunter Fales went 3-for-3, as Antioch scored eight runs after the first en route to a 10-5 victory in the championship. Big hitters during the tournament included Jeff Baird (.400 BA), Nelson (.400 BA), Grimm (.500 BA), Fales (.400 BA), Kyle Kreutzer (.455 BA) and Nick Matkovich (.571 BA).

Members of the team include: Jeff Baird, Aaron Cashmore, Hunter Fales, Austin Grimm, Joey Ignoffo, Joel Jarres, Klye Kreutzer, Nick Matkovich, Wesley McMinimy, Allen Nelson, Robby Sheehan and Levi Tijerina.

The Antioch Sequoit girls basketball team concluded a busy summer schedule by winning the Niles West Shoot-out. The Sequoits defeated St. Scholastica in the opening round 55-17. In round two, the Antioch held off a late rally by host Niles West to escape with a 30-27 victory. In the finals, the Sequoits defeated Stevenson High School by a score of 41-31.

The three-game sweep was the best stretch of basketball for the Sequoits this summer. Head coach Don Zeman was very pleased with the girls effort.

"The heat was oppressive and the tournament format called for us to play three game in succession," he said. "But the girls responded with a solid effort of teamwork on offense and some spurts of tenacious defense. The seven girls who competed for us in this Shoot-out were among our hardest workers all summer. They really wanted to end our summer program on a positive note and they made it happen."

The Sequoit squad included juniors Starla Williams, Daniel Nielsen and Robyn Mortenson, and sophomores Kathryn Reynolds, Bonnie Henning, Molly Bonner and Brynn Schwaba.

It was a very busy summer, according to Zeman, but a very productive one for those players who took advantage of the scheduled activities.

"In addition to two nights of practice each week, we participated in the Zion varsity league and the Zion junior-varsity league," noted Zeman. "We also entered two shoot-out tournaments to give the girls some additional competition. It was sometimes frustrating trying to get the level of commitment I'd like to see from all the girls in our program."

Some girls had scheduling conflicts while others simply didn't make a commitment. But for those girls who regularly attended our practices and games, it was a great opportunity for them to show Zeman what they could do.

"A lot of the younger players got to play against varsity-level competition on a regular basis. This can only help us be stronger for the regular season ahead," said Zeman.

Providing peace of mind

Peace Corps volunteer feels reward of a job well done

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

...year-olds spend
...music, dating
...clothes. Erica Boehm was applying to the Peace Corps.

"I first tried applying when I was 16-years old and was told I was too young," she said.

Undeterred, Boehm stayed the course completing her high school education in Antioch, where she moved to from Chicago in the fifth grade.

From there, she went on to the University Wisconsin in Madison where she earned a bachelor's degree in international agriculture in life sciences, concentrating on plant and forest pathology.

She immediately entered the Peace Corps after graduation.

Boehm is exactly the type person former President John F. Kennedy had in mind when the program was officially established on March 1, 1961.

As a presidential candidate, he challenged college students at the University of Michigan-Ann Arbor when he asked how many of them would be willing to serve their country and the cause of peace by living and working in the developing world.

Though Boehm's first attempt to enter the Peace Corps was earlier than most who apply, she has not been alone in her enthusiasm.

Over the last 40 years, more than 163,000 Americans have responded to Kennedy's enduring challenge. Of 7,300 current members, 61 percent are female and 82 percent have undergraduate degrees.

The application process itself is something to be endured. One has to fill out the application, supply a number of references, have an in-person interview with a recruiter who explores issues of flexibility, adaptability, social sensitivity, cultural awareness, motivation and commitment. From there, the recruiter decides whether or not to nominate the applicant.

After being officially nominated, one takes a medical exam-

Erica Boehm traveled to make sure other volunteers were living in safe conditions. One volunteer built this mud hut in Veraguas.

Boehm said another misconception is that all Panamanians are Latinos.

"There are four different indigenous groups in Panama and each has their own language and culture," she said. "They are tiny, petite people. Families stick together and all live at home.

ination and the Peace Corps determines whether the applicant fits the "legal standards of eligibility" that includes marital status, dependents, previous arrests/convictions, financial obligations, bankruptcy, past association with U.S. intelligence activities and current obligations to the military.

Finally, one must be submitted to the United States Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) for a background check.

Boehm said that her interest as a 16-year-old stemmed from thinking "it sounded interesting and like a cool thing to do," and later her motives changed and she wanted to perform public service for its own sake.

She spent three years in Panama with the Peace Corps. The first two years were spent in the Province of Coclé, and the third year she was promoted to the position of volunteer coordinator and traveled all over Panama.

"One of the challenges of Panama is that there are the very wealthy and there are others who really live in poverty," Boehm explained.

According to Boehm, the first three months are spent in training to become oriented with both the language and the culture.

"You spend a lot of time going around and visiting people and making connections with them. You make a lot of great friendships.

"The cultural exchange, both ways, is very important," she added. "Most people here think of the Panama Canal or (Manuel)
Noriega. The military just left Panama, and there is a big contrast between how (American) men and women are viewed.
They have 'Bay Watch' and think of women as being that way and think of the men as the military

They are very close."

She lived with a host family, as do all Peace Corps volunteers, for her first three months in Panama. She said most places have no electricity, and often there is no water. Depending on the area, homes are either mud huts made of a mixture of mud, cow dung and grass, or grass huts in the rainier regions where mud huts would be washed away. After that initial period, volunteers either build their own huts or stay on with the host family.

SPECIAL EVENT

Open invitation to pow wow

The Potawatomi Trails Pow-wow Committee of Zion will hold the eighth annual Potawatomi Trails Social Pow-wow on Saturday, Aug. 25 and Sunday, Aug. 26 at Shiloh Park in Zion. Everyone is welcome to attend this social event and gathering of Native American people which is a celebration to mark the end of a season and to welcome the beginning of a new one. They are descendants of the Potawatomi that once lived in the Lake County area. Also performing this year are Ron Sapp, a flute maker and performing artist from Missouri. The Pidgeon Family from Michigan will be demonstrating the art of making black ash baskets. These baskets will be available for sale.

Gates will open to the public both days at 10 a.m. Saturday hours will be 10 a.m.-10 p.m. The Grand Entry of dancers will be at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. with a dinner break from 5-7 p.m. Sunday hours are 10 a.m.-5 p.m. with Grand Entry at 1 p.m.

At the pow-wow there are no spectators. When the MC announces an "inter-tribal" song everyone is welcome to dance if they choose to. Just browsing the trader booths or talking to people makes visitors a part of the celebration. Daily admission is $5 for adults, children 6-12 years $1 and elders over 65 and children under 5 are free. All children must be accompanied by an adult. Hand stamp re-entry is included in admission cost.

The Potawatomi Trails Pow-wow Committee of Zion, the Zion Park District and The Daughters of the American Revolution, Little Fort Chapter are jointly presenting a special historical event on Saturday, Aug. 25. A rededication of the last living Trail Tree in Lake County will take place at 10 a.m. This tree was first dedicated in October of 1936 and has been named as a living landmark by the Zion Historical Commission. This event will be held along Shiloh Blvd. across from Midwestern Regional Medical Center in Zion.

The Potawatomi Trails were established by the Native Americans who lived in this area and marked their footpaths to indicate directions. Small oak saplings were bent and tied into knots as signs to show the correct direction to travel. The Potawatomi Trails pow-wow honors these people and their descendants who left these markers behind. Modern day Sheridan Road and Green Bay Road in Lake County were built following these trails.

The Potawatomi Trails Pow Wow Committee is a not-for-profit educational group located in Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin. Its goal is to educate the public about Native American cultures without the influence of other organizations and free of political affiliations; to locate, document, and protect historical Native American sites located in and around our communities and to preserve traditional teachings and values for the youth of the communities.

PEACE

Most of Boehm's time was spent working in the agri-forestry program.

"We did a lot of reforestation with native species and soil conservation. The technology was pretty basic. You have to use what resources they have available," she said.

Boehm said the adjustment period could be a little tough.

"I cried a few times in the beginning. I was so much taller than the average person was. I stood out," she said. "Also, my job was to go out with the farmers. Women just didn't go out with machetes and harvest corn."

Understanding the cultural differences helped Boehm through that period.

"The men think of themselves as superior. 'Machismo' is a fitting word," she said. "There would be some rumors, but then the men would see that you were working hard and really trying to make a difference. Once I had that feeling that I was a member of the community, things got a lot better."

Boehm explained that the Peace Corps have changed from its inception in the 1960s.

"We aren't forcing projects on communities anymore," she said. "You are your own boss, and you can do what you want as long as it's what the community wants."

She said there is one volunteer per site who determines what the wants and needs of the community are, and acts as a liaison between various agencies.

"Most of the results of our work are indirect," she said.

One of the most exciting aspects of being involved with the Peace Corps for Boehm was working with the women's groups associated with the corps.

"We would hold professional-type conferences with the women and teach them about things like self-esteem, sexual diseases and domestic violence," she said. "Each volunteer would bring two interested women from the community to these conferences. These women really needed this type of service."

Though Boehm said most of the results of her work were indirect, through her efforts residents of her "home base" were able to build a community center with funds solicited from U.S. Aid. "Once the Peace Corps got the materials, the residents put together the plans and built the community center," she said.

The permanent structure was built from cinder block and roofed with tin. "This will be a great place for the people to meet for social events or for whatever reason they want to gather."

Boehm said it isn't necessary to join the Peace Corps to be able to make a difference.

She said students from Antioch Community High School collected and donated clothing that was sent to Panama via the Antioch Woman's Club, and that individuals of the United Methodist Church of Antioch made cash donations.

"I had set goals of what I was going to do after college, but that was before being in the Peace Corps," said Boehm. "I would like to use my Spanish and do some volunteer work, but I haven't really decided what direction to take from here."

Boehm recommends spending time in the Peace Corps but cautioned, "no matter how much you prepare, you'll never be prepared enough when you get there. The cultures are so different, you have to be really open."

Wildwood woman finds writer's inspiration

By HELEN MANSFIELD
Staff Reporter

People with artistic talents find inspiration in many different places. Painters can find beauty by traveling down a long, sweeping beach front; writers can come up with ideas through sleep deprivation.

Maybe I should start over... Kathy Bostrom, a 46-year-old mother of three, is co-pastor of the Wildwood Presbyterian Church with her husband Greg.

Around 10 years ago, close the time the couple moved to the Wildwood area, Bostrom learned she had Fibromyalgia, a chronic muscle disorder which causes severe muscle pain, fatigue and sleep disorders.

To combat her sleeplessness, Bostrom began walking through the streets of her Wildwood neighborhood, and, as often happens with creative people, she began to get inspired to write.

"I never did it a lot when I was young," she said. "I loved books, but never envisioned myself writing, but through the years people told me I was good at it."

Bostrom had been told by former teachers and members of her congregation who listened to her sermons, that she wrote well and should consider writing a book.

Meanwhile, she kept walking.

"I would observe so many things and wonder how to describe things," she said. "I would see cottonwood seeds that would remind me of snow."

Walking gave her time to think and as far as support and inspiration, Bostrom didn't need to look any further than her family.

"I was rocking with my son and reading him a story when I thought what a great thing it would be to have other people read my stories to their children; it was an awesome feeling," she said.

Bostrom has two sons, Christopher, 16, and David, 12, and one daughter, Amy, 14.

With no experience and no clue how to go about it, Bostrom began writing children's books.

She taught herself the process of writing query letters to publishers, sending off manuscripts and attended writing conferences to polish her craft.

Before she was finally accepted, Bostrom received around 250 rejection letters, but even those letters didn't discourage her.

"Some told me that I was good and some were specific about why they rejected my stories, so I knew I was actually getting read," she said.

Bostrom equated her struggle of getting published to being called to the ministry. "I knew I had to follow my heart," she said.

After four years of trying, her first book published was by the Christian book publishers Tyndale House and was called "What is God Like?" under her publishing name, Kathleen Long Bostrom.

Followed by "Who is Jesus?", "Are Angels Real?", and "What about Heaven?", the books address questions posed by young children trying to understand their faith.

The books were part of the "Little Blessings" series which were illustrated by Elena Kucharik. The drawings may look familiar to some as Kucharik was the artist who drew the popular "Care Bears" of the 80s.

Her family remained supportive through the long, arduous task.

"Since I started when my kids were so young, it seemed like forever for them before I got published," she said. "One of my children asked Santa if he could get my book published and another child said that they were going to grow up to be a publisher, even though they were too young to know what that was."

Along with Tyndale House, Bostrom has contracts with Zandervan Publishers and the Presbyterian Publishing House.

Bostrom has two new books coming out this fall "Song of Creation" and "God Loves You."

"God Loves You" will be her first "toddler" style book, in that the pages will be thicker, "so kids can chew on them."

Despite her health condition, Bostrom remains positive and focuses on the positive. She has had related surgeries and treats her illness with diet, exercise and some medication.

"I had a portion of my colon removed and a writer friend of mine told me, 'Oh, that's okay, you have a semi-colon'," she said with a laugh.

"I'm just grateful it's not life-threatening." During her writing ordeals, Bostrom said she often felt guilty that her desire to be published took too much time away from her family, but her daughter Amy put it into perspective for her.

"She told me she was proud of me and that I had taught her if she really wanted something, to keep working until she achieved it," Bostrom recalled. And that's good for everyone to remember.

Bostrom's books can be found in most bookstores, on Amazon.com or through the church.

For more information, call the church at 223-0073.

Largest snake in the world celebrates 24th birthday

Baby, a 403-pound, 27-foot Burmese python, celebrates her 24th birthday at Serpent Safari, an indoor reptile zoo in Gurnee Mills Mall, Grand Ave. in Gurnee, on Aug. 26. She was certified by the "Guinness Book of Records" in February of 1999 as the heaviest snake in the world. Her weight, length and age are very unusual for a snake of this species.

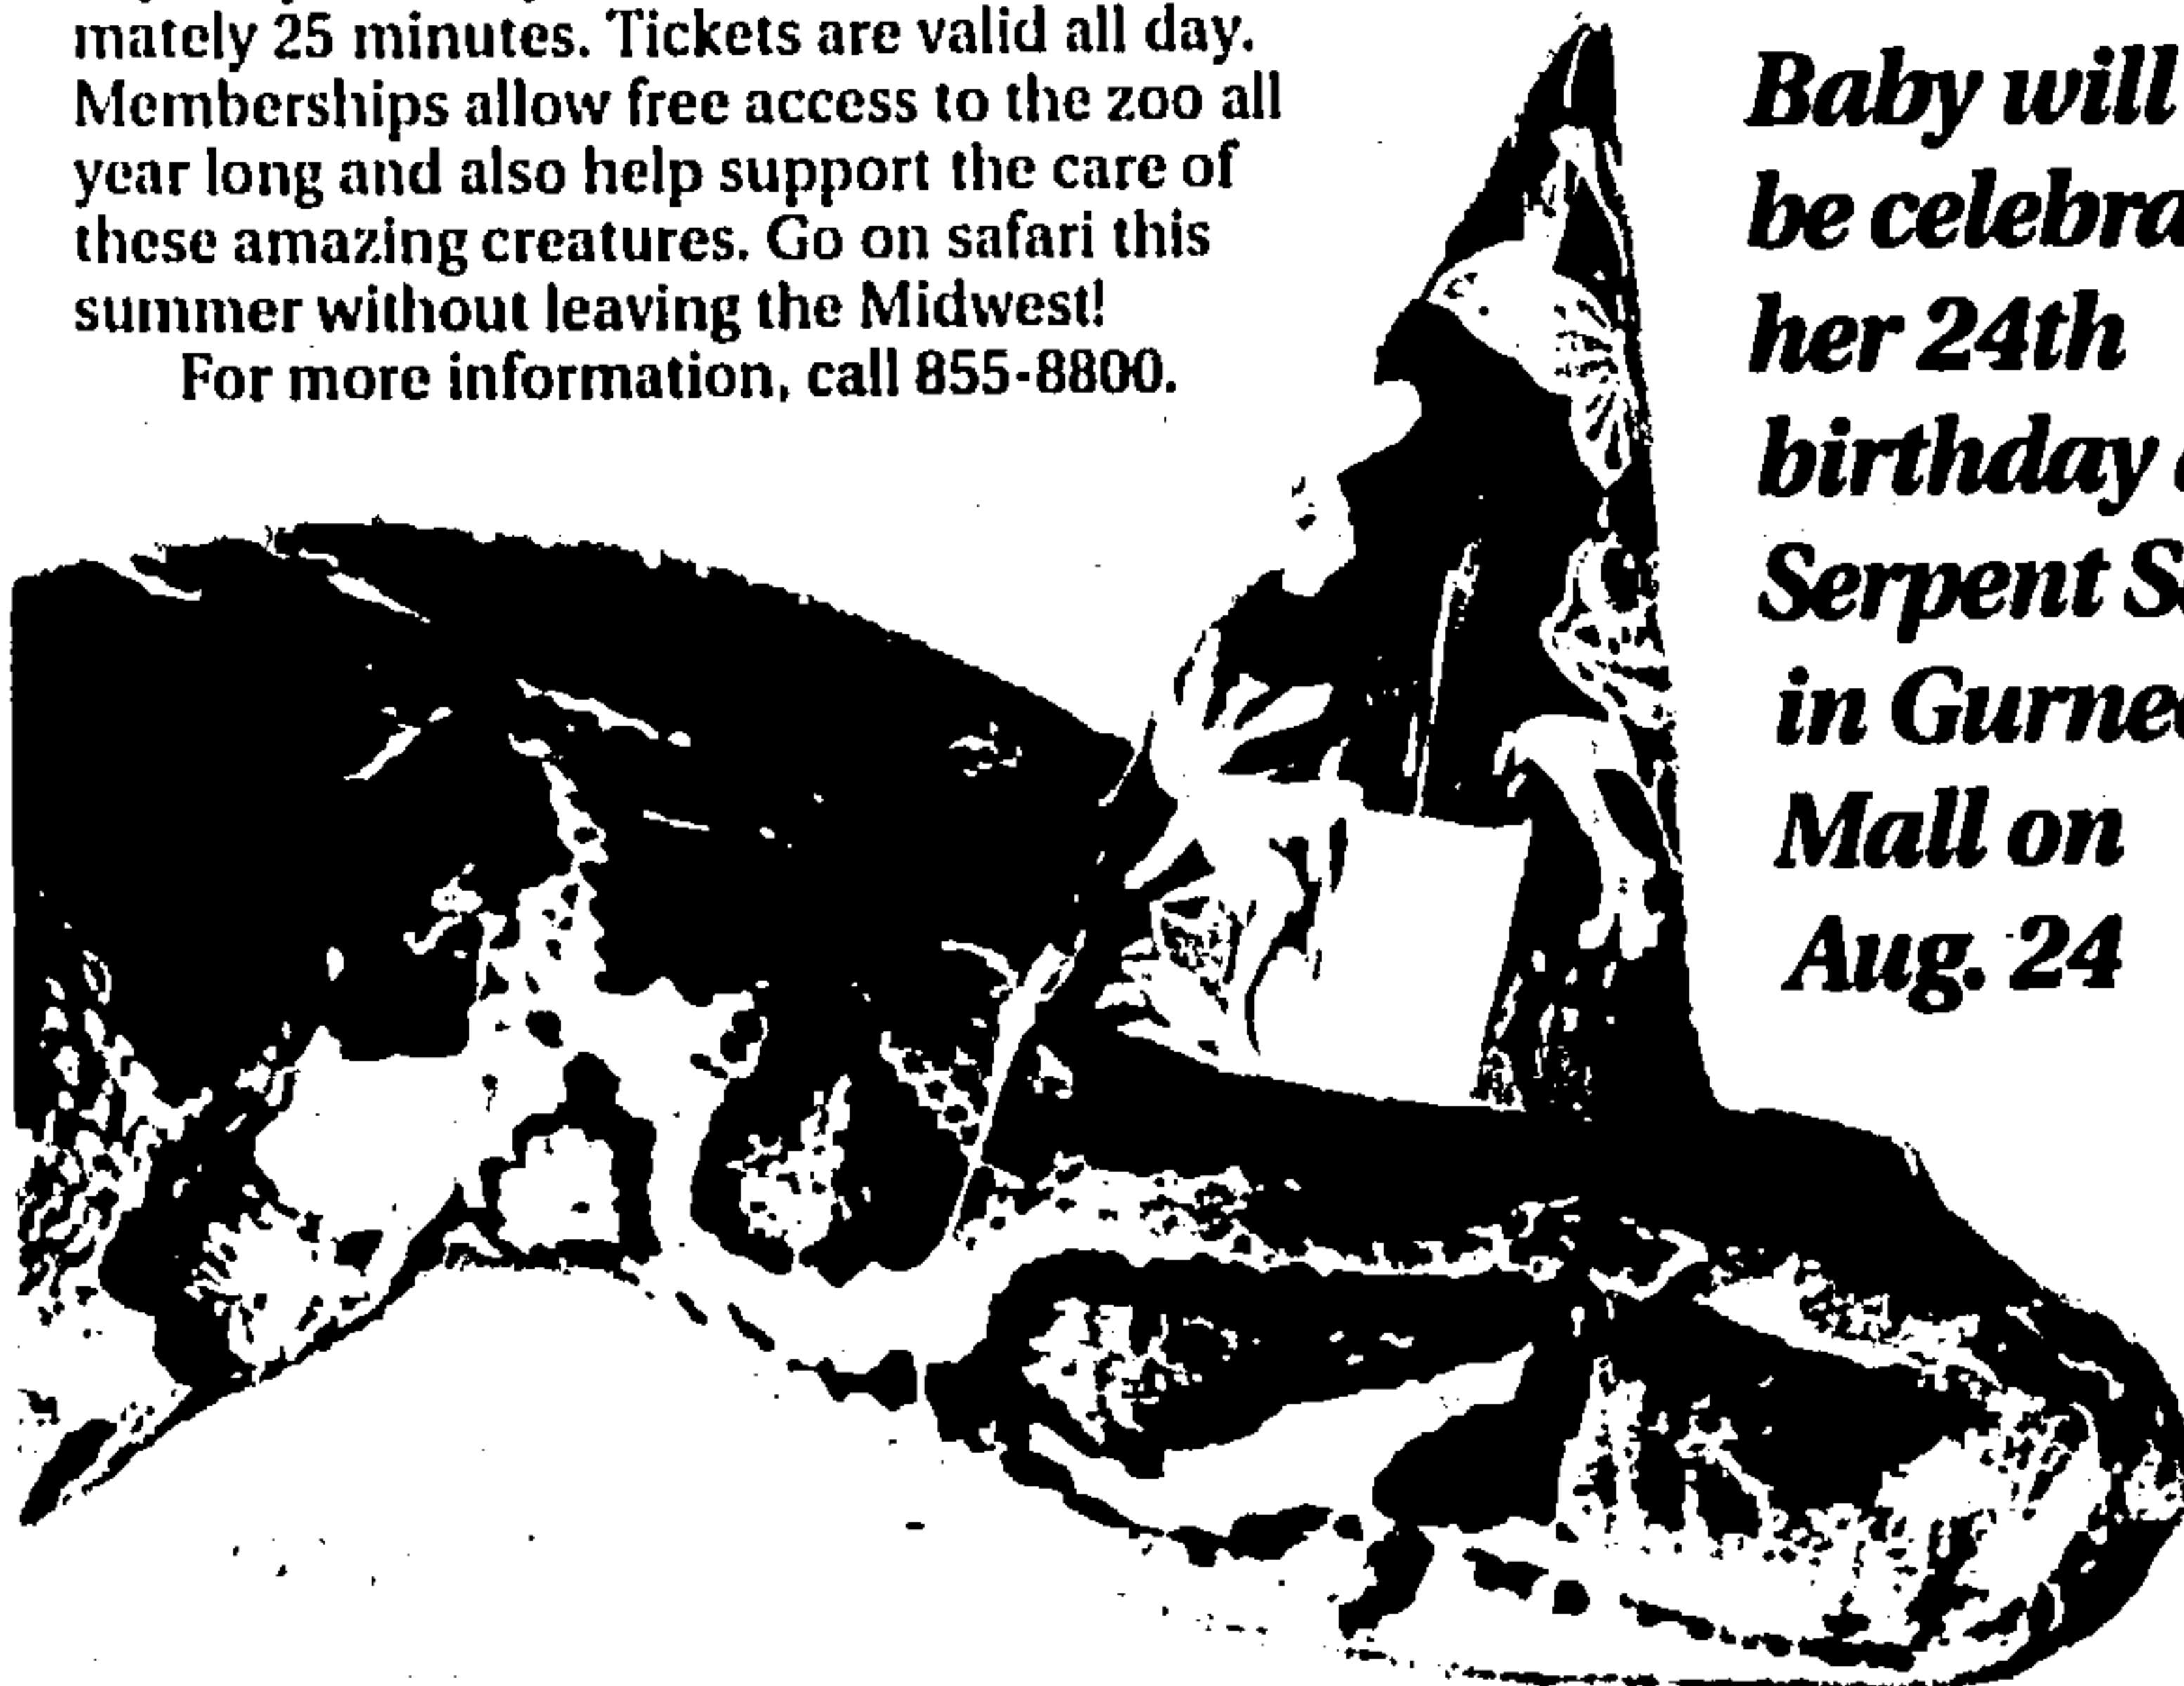

Baby's birthday party will take place the last week of August with festivities for Serpent Safari members and their children. Birthday cake and treats will be served to the invited guests. Baby will skip the festive cake, but will dine on poultry, her favorite meal. She can consume 80 pounds of whole chickens. Other guests can view this massive snake as part of Serpent Safari's unusual collection of rare reptiles on a guided safari tour each day of the year. During the month of August, guests can mention Baby's birthday to receive $5 off their photo with a python or alligator.

Other unusual animals to meet are the caiman lizards (their choice of party food is escargot), yellow tree monitors (a playful lizard species just discovered at the rainforest treetops two and a half years ago), crocodile monitors (Steven Spielberg used these creatures as the model for his velociraptors in the movie "Jurassic Park"), Cuddles the famous 18-foot anaconda from the movie "Anaconda" and Cleopatra the Nile crocodile (she'll devour anything).

Guided safari tours for families, groups and birthdays depart every four minutes, lasting approximately 25 minutes. Tickets are valid all day. Memberships allow free access to the zoo all year long and also help support the care of these amazing creatures. Go on safari this summer without leaving the Midwest!

For more information, call 855-8800.

'Corelli's Mandolin' hits sour notes

After sitting through over two hours of "Captain Corelli's Mandolin," I found myself longing for the days of silent movies. The charm of the silents was that one could enjoy the pretty scenery, without having to hear actors chew it up with badly written and executed dialogue.

Perhaps it's me. I came to this movie with high expectations. I confess to having an unrequited "thing" for Nicolas Cage, who has entertained me through such diverse films as "Raising Arizona," "Moonstruck," "Leaving Las Vegas," and "Bringing Out the Dead," among others. I expected to be delighted by him, again.

Similarly, I was under the impression that John Madden, who had charmed the heck out of me with "Shakespeare in Love," was capable of successfully bringing Louis de Bernieres' popular novel to the screen.

Perhaps it was the plot itself. We are introduced to the people of Cephalonia, a small Greek island, in 1940. The island is beautiful. Penelope Cruz, as Pelagia, the daughter of the island's doctor (John Hurt) is beautiful. Life is beautiful.

movie review

Pelagia, who is studying to be a doctor (although where and when remains a mystery), inexplicably becomes betrothed to Mandras (Christian Bale), a good-looking village oaf, just before he goes off to war. Mandras leaves. The Italians come. From that point on, I want to leave.

The mayor of the village refuses to surrender to the Italians, who are represented in the discussion by Captain Corelli (Nicolas Cage), a mandolin-toting caricature of his role in "Moonstruck." The mayor tells the Italians to "Fack off," ostensibly, in Greek. We know this, because he hands Corelli a note written in Greek, and he speaks with something sort of like a Greek accent. Corelli translates the reply to the Italians by repeating the words in something like an Italian accent, if the "spicy meatballs" commercial of the '60s is your idea of an Italian accent.

By the time the Germans arrive, represented by the humorless Captain Weber (David Morrissey), who attempts to befriend the music-loving and buffoonish Italians, the mess of fake accents becomes unbearable. My charitable explanation is that the director did not want to use subtitles, and uses the convention of accents to suggest that everyone is speaking a different language. Unfortunately, the dialect coaches fell down on the job here, and the result made my head hurt.

Why am I focusing on the accents? There's not much else. The script was slow and plodding. The love affair between Pelagia and Corelli never sprouts wings. It is not love at first sight, as Corelli's boorish first line to Pelagia is "bella bambina at 2 o'clock!" In subsequent scenes, Pelagia alternates between bloodless flirting with other men—assumedly to show her disdain and disinterest in Nicolas Cage plays a musically-inclined romantic Italian soldier in "Captain Corelli's Mandolin," released by Universal Pictures.

Corelli—and smoldering gazes whenever he plays his mandolin.

Finally, for no known reason, they make love. Perhaps Madden sensed that the love story was soporific. Midway through the movie, we are awakened from our slumber by explosions on a beach, when Corelli and his men blow up a huge mine they have discovered. The real nastiness of war finally intrudes. The goofy German captain displays his evil side, as opposed to the Italians, who are the "good" fascist invaders.

Never, for a moment, was I able to suspend disbelief in the characters or the plot. The unbelievable ending didn't help. The redeeming artistic value of this film is the beautiful scenery. This might be a good one to rent, especially if you turn off the sound and just play some pretty music. Corelli would recommend Puccini.

I give this movie one popcorn box, because the German officer did not imitate Captain Klink. It was the only stereotypical accent missed. I give it a second box for the pretty cinematography. That's a nice.

Pike River Rendezvous travels back to 1700

Travel back to the late 1700s and early 1800s when Native Americans and European and Euro-American traders called "Kenozia" home at the fourth Annual Pike River Rendezvous at Poerio Park. Return to the days of the trappers and traders on Saturday, Aug. 25 from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. and Sunday, Aug. 26 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. This is a free family event sponsored by the City of Kenosha Division of Parks and the Kenosha Public Museum.

A horse-drawn wagon will shuttle visitors from the pond back to the encampment where costumed re-enactors will be living in more than 50 camps. In the encampment try corn grinding, visit the "travelers' inn" or see how far you can throw a frying pan. Talk with the reenactors, listen to period music and try other activities to learn about this important era in Wisconsin's history.

Poerio Park is located on Kenosha's northside, 20th Ave. between Hwy E and 15th St. For further information, call the Parks Division at 262-653-408.

Police urge back to school booster seat check

As parents think about getting their child ready for "back to school," the Kenosha Police Department reminds parents that it is a great time to think about their child's safety when riding in a car.

"Back to school time may mean booster seat time," said Lt. Tom Genthner. "Going to school is a big step for little ones and marks a sign of growth. Knowing this, it is a great time to check if your little man or lady has outgrown their child seat and is graduating to a booster seat."

According to the NHTSA, adult safety belts do not adequately protect children ages 4-8, those about 40-80 pounds. Car booster seats lift the child up and make the safety belt and shoulder harness fit properly.

According to Bridget Clementi, local coordinator of the Southeastern Wisconsin Safe Kids Coalition, an estimated 83 percent of children ages 4-8 ride improperly restrained in an adult seat belt.

"We don't make children wear adult clothes; we have sizes made to fit them properly. Why make a child wear an adult seat belt that will not protect them properly?" she said. "Car booster seats can protect kids from severe spinal cord injuries, abdominal injuries and ejection in a crash."

The Kenosha Police Department urges parents to make sure your child has the right protection when riding in a car as part of your "back to school" preparation.

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20 Don't stand back when you see someone making a grave mistake early in the week. Stop him/her before things get too far and try to correct the situation. Your efforts will be rewarded. An old friend asks a favor. Don't commit to something that you'll regret.

Taurus - April 21/May 21 Don't fight change this week when it comes to your work. The old way of doing things isn't always the best way. Think of it as an improvement. A loved one has an important project for you. Don't be nervous; you definitely are up to the task. Show him or her exactly what you can do.

Gemini - May 22/June 21 Don't get impatient, Gemini, when it comes to a personal matter on Tuesday. You've done all that you can; now, you just have to wait for the outcome. Don't worry; things will work out in your favor. The person whom you've been seeing gets into trouble. Be there for him or her; show how much you really care.

Cancer - June 22/July 22 A business associate confides in you about an upcoming event. Keep it to yourself. It is not your place to tell anyone else about this. A family gathering gets a little out of hand late in the week. Do what you can to keep everyone calm. Aquarius plays an important role on Saturday.

Leo - July 23/August 23 Keep your eyes and ears open this week. Something suspicious is going on and it's in your best interest to find out what that something is. A close friend is in a bind and needs help. Do what you can-even if it involves changing your plans. It will be worth your while.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22 A business associate asks to borrow money. Say no. This person hasn't given you any reason to trust him or her in the past; don't trust him or her now. You run into an old friend late in the week, and that old flame starts to spark. Make plans to see him or her again. This is the beginning of a great relationship.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23 Don't take an acquaintance's wisecracks to heart. He or she is just frustrated, and you're the closest person around. Just let it go in one ear and out the other. A loved one causes a family argument. Help sort things out, and try to get family members talking again. It's not going to be easy.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22 You learn some disappointing news about a close friend. Give him or her the benefit of the doubt until you find out the truth. That special someone has a surprise for you. Before you accept it, think about the consequences. Are you ready for them? Taurus plays a key role.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21 You feel really good this week. Share your joy with those around you. You're sure to brighten their day. A friend of a friend needs your help. Do what you can. Your efforts will be appreciated and rewarded.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20 Don't let your drive to succeed overcome your loyalty to your friends. Betraying those close to you only will cause problems for you in the long run. A loved one gets into a sticky situation and needs you to bail him or her out. Do what you can, but don't get too involved.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18 Be practical when it comes to planning your week. Don't bite off more than you can chew. There's a lot going on that needs your full attention. A business associate wants to be more than co-workers. Don't get involved with him/her; it will lead to trouble.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20 While it goes against your nature, you get greedy with your possessions. Share what you have with those closest to you; they're not going to take anything away. A close friend takes you to an interesting party late in the week. Try to have a good time. You're going to meet someone very interesting there.

County begins nationwide search to fill vacant position

The Lake County Human Resources Department has begun a nationwide search to fill the vacant county administrator position at the request of Lake County Board Chairman Suzi Schmidt.

The county administrator position was left vacant when former administrator, Karl Nollenberger, resigned to pursue other interests.

Lake County Board Chairman Suzi Schmidt named Assistant Gary Gibson as Interim County administrator until the county board selects a new, permanent administrator.

As the chief administrative officer for the county, duties of the county administrator include overseeing the annual budget process, providing support to the county board, directing legislative initiatives and coordinating the functions of all departments and government agencies.

A county administrator selection committee will be appointed by Chairman Suzi Schmidt and will consist of Lake County board members.

The county administrator position requires the equivalent of a master's degree in public or business administration and 10 years of progressively more responsible administrative experience with a local government of comparable size and complexity to Lake County, population 644,356. The beginning salary for this position is negotiable depending on qualifications.

A job announcement and application for the county administrator position are available on the Lake County web site www.co.lake.il.us or by calling Human Resources at 377-2700.

The deadline for application submission is Oct. 5. Applications should be submitted to County Board Chairman, 18 N. County St., 10th Floor, Waukegan, IL, 60085.

Extension Office offering bulbs

During the second week of September, the County Extension Office, in Grayslake, will be magically transformed into an agricultural distributor.

Normally, a quiet office with master gardeners, giving telephone and walk-in advice to home gardeners, 4-H programs and other social and educational services, the office will be jammed with more than 30 volunteers for their second annual Spring Bulb Sale.

The Lake County Extension Foundation will once again be holding the fund raising sale on Friday-Saturday, Sept. 14-15 at the Extension Office.

The sale, which is open to the public, offers a mix of top quality traditional spring bulbs and distinctive varieties, usually not found at local nurseries.

In addition to the spring-blooming tulips, daffodils, hyacinths and Dutch irises, two fall blooming crocuses will be available.

Among the new bulbs offered this year are Crocus Tommasinianus Barr's purple, which is squirrel resistant, Cammassia leitchii (Indian Hyacinth), a tall blue flower that is both native to the United States and tolerates the wet clay soils found in northern Illinois, and Fritillaria imperialis, melagris, persica and michailovskyi—all of which are deer and rodent resistant and repellent.

Numerous smaller bulbs from scilla to muscari and several varieties of both large and small-flowered alliums will be offered.

In all, 58 varieties of bulbs will be available for sale.

"We're very fortunate to again receive our bulbs from a local distributor who normally sells exclusively to commercial landscapers. This is an opportunity for the homeowner to acquire top quality bulbs without having to buy wholesale size quantities," said Hope Forcier, chair of the bulb sale committee.

The cash and carry sale starts, Friday Sept. 14 from 12:30-6 p.m. and continues on Saturday, Sept. 15 from 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

Master gardeners from the Extension will be available at the sale to answer planting questions, offer suggestions for combining different bulbs and for using bulbs to maximize color and full season coverage.

Only cash and checks will be accepted. The proceeds of this event will be used to support Extension programs such as the master gardener program and 4-H.

Recorder's office donates school supplies to 15 children

Lake County Recorder of Deeds, Mary Ellen Vanderventer and her staff collected a wish list of school supplies for 15 children residing in Waukegan's Staben House, a transitional home for homeless women and children in the county.

Among the items dropped off were backpacks, spiral notebooks, pencils and pens, glue, art materials and other needed school supplies.

"Our office has somewhat adopted the children of Staben House during the Holiday Season, collecting gifts for them. Staff members wanted to continue to help the families who live at Staben House and did a tremendous job of collecting school supplies," said Vanderventer.

"The majority of the credit for this effort belongs to Dolores Braun and Mary Stickels who spearheaded this project. It is a credit to them and the rest of the office that they care enough about Lake County to go beyond their normal work duties to participate in such charitable projects," Vanderventer added.

Second installment of 2000 real estate taxes due

Lake County Treasurer Robert Skidmore reminds residents that the due date for the second installment of the 2000 real estate taxes is Sept. 4.

Payments can be made in person by cash, check or Discover Card at the Lake County Treasurer's office, 18 N. County St., Room 102, Waukegan. A fee of $1 to $15 will be assessed for those using Discover Card at the treasurer's office. Payments can also be made by mail or at most Lake County Banks. In order to avoid penalty, payments must be postmarked on or before Sept. 4.

In addition to its regular hours, the treasurer's office will be open Saturday, Sept. 1, from 9 a.m.-noon, and on Tuesday, Sept. 4 until 7 p.m.

Those who are unable to pay the full amount will be able to make partial payments. Any partial payment must be made in person at the treasurer's office or by mail. County banks will not accept partial payments.

For additional information, visit the treasurer's web site at www.co.lake.il.us/treasurer.

Cost of death records raised

The fee charged by the county for death records has increased. Lake County Clerk Willard Helander announced. Governor George Ryan signed into law PA 92-0141 on July 24, mandating an increased fee for the records. Effective immediately, the fees for all certified copies of death or fetal death records will increase by $2. The increase is to be collected for the first and for each additional certified copy issued. The initial copy is $10; additional copies cost $6.

The rate increase will be transmitted to the Division of Vital Records, Illinois Department of Public Health and will fund a statewide electronic death certificate (EDC) system. The statewide system is intended to provide accurate and timely storage and retrieval of data and statistics for vital records registration and administration.

For additional information on vital records fees, contact the Clerk's office, at 377-2411.

Violated youth to be recounted

Former Miss America Marilyn Van Derbur will address an aunts and uncles event at 3 p.m., Sunday, Sept. 9, sponsored by LaCASA, the Lake County Council Against Sexual Assault.

The program, running until 6 p.m., will be held at Zacharias Center, Gurnee.

In demand for 30 years as a speaker on childhood sexual assault and abuse, Van Derbur, who reigned in 1958 as Miss America, was violated by her father from age 5-18.

Her story as an adult survivor of incest is rated a riveting experience.

The program is open to all interested persons.

Van Derbur in 1958.

Blood donations urged to stem shortage

Condell Medical Center is urging Lake County residents to donate blood now to save lives.

Hospitals in northeastern Illinois and across the nation are facing a critical blood shortage that could lead to canceling surgeries if there are not adequate blood supplies on hand for emergency transfusions.

Surgeons are encouraging family members of patients who are anticipating surgery to make special arrangements to donate blood exclusively for their family member. The processing and screening time, however, is about one week before the blood can be used, according to LifeSource spokeswoman Cheryl Balough. LifeSource does not help individuals who need immediate lifesaving surgery.

Prospective donors should contact a LifeSource facility in Gurnee or Lake Bluff by calling 1-800-486-0680. The facilities are open Monday-Thursday noon-7:30 p.m. and Saturday, 7:30 a.m.-3 p.m. To make certain your blood is used for the local shortage, mention Condell Group 928 when making your appointment.

Blood has a limited shelf life, so additional donors will be needed every day for a few weeks. To donate, you must be in good health, weigh at least 110 pounds and be at least 17 years old (16 with parental consent). Once you have donated, there is a two-month waiting period until you can donate again.

Even though blood donations are up 5 percent over last summer, an extremely high demand for blood is causing an area wide blood shortage, according to Balough at LifeSource. Other areas, such as Los Angeles, are facing a similar blood shortage, and the trend is being attributed to an aging population and an increase in life-saving procedures such as angioplasty, open heart surgery, chemotherapy and organ transplants.

Blood may continue to be in short supply into fall 2001 and beyond if the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) heeds a recommendation from one of its advisory committees to decline blood donations from individuals who have traveled outside the United States within the past year. LifeSource anticipates that the FDA will be agreeing to this measure when they release an official decision in September. The restrictions would be imposed to protect Americans from being exposed to illnesses such as mad cow disease.

Financing approved for town center

Grant Township trustees voted unanimously to accept a proposal from the Chicago-based bond firm Chapman and Cutler for financing construction of a new township administrative center to replace a more than 100-year-old structure.

The plan involved issuance of $950,000 in debt certificates that will be funded by Lakeland Community Bank with principal and interest to be paid back over a 20 year period.

At the same time, the board voted to designate Trustee William Brumbach as an additional signatory.

The loan document requires the signatures of the township supervisor, town clerk, a designated member of the town board, county clerk and a bank representative.

The board's acceptance of the funding plan on a motion by Trustee Richard Steuber effectively completes funding work that has been going on for nearly two years. The motion to second was made by Trustee Robert Selle.

The debt instrument is being coupled with approximately $500,000 accumulated in a capital improvement fund at the rate of $70,000 per year.

The township will be obligated to make monthly payments of $6,375.37 for 10 years at an interest rate of 5 1/8 percent with a 5 1/2 percent cap. The debt agreement provides for a review after 10 years.

The town center now under construction on Molitor Road will cost a total of $1.4 million including furnishings and equipment.

Postal losses confound public

In the suburbs, where a trip to the post office often results in standing in a line like the Christmas rush, it's hard to understand that the U.S. Postal Service (USPS) is suffering from weak growth. As USPS reels toward a loss of between $1.5 and $2 billion for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, postal officials are searching for new business while they labor to sustain service levels, uncover new expense reductions and search for ways to increase productivity. You won't like to hear this—neither did we—but the most apparent solution to post office officials is raising rates AGAIN, possibly as early as this fall.

One response to rising costs that makes sense is a plan to close unprofitable post offices, small offices that don't generate enough mail volume to pay costs. Just like millions of dollars have been shaved from the military budget by closing bases, huge sums doubtlessly could be diverted elsewhere by closing unproductive offices.

As a major mailer, this newspaper was asked to voice an opinion on possible cost cutting solutions: eliminating Saturday delivery, reducing labor expenses, expanding borrowing ability and raising postal rates. Commerce could cope without Saturday delivery, but our local post office needs to remain open Saturdays to serve the working public that can't access postal service any other day. No one questions (except the unions) that the mail system is burdened with antiquated work rules and inefficiencies. Borrowing should be utilized, especially to add efficient new systems and facilities that increase productivity. Raising rates is out of the question, considering that the public has been hit enough and business mailers continue to absorb more mailing costs by taking on duties once handled by the post office.

USPS has many experienced and dedicated employees who possess a wealth of know how who, if empowered, could make much needed changes in the mail system. We'd like to hear from them. It's high time postal workers were invited to speak out on how to improve the ailing system.

Doughy delight coming our way

Get ready for a new landmark. Rtes. 60 and 45. Krispy Kreme is on the way! Mundelein officials are certain they've scored a masterstroke in landing the area's first Krispy Kreme, the gooey, doughy delight that has achieved cult status. Just like Starbucks. Ahem.

In case you've lived a deprived life like we have—growing up without ever eating a Krispy Kreme—be advised that we're talking about a doughnut. Oh, yeah. We're told a Krispy Kreme is a culinary dream. An out of life experience. A doughnut with steroids.

Well, we'll see. Give Mundelein credit for breaking trail for Krispy Kreme, which has been a southern mainstay for years. Like grits, yams and buttered beans.

The Krispy Kreme store will be open 24 hours a day, churning out enough doughnuts to create a cholesteral epidemic. The new store is expected to be open by the Christmas season, just in time to shoulder aside all the holiday goodies.

Krispy Kreme's breakout from regional confinement is in the tradition of national fads. Americans love to hop on a bandwagon. Krispy Kreme is to doughnuts what MacDonald's once was to hamburgers before it squandered its cache and mystic by building a store on every corner.

OK. Definitely not your ordinary sinker. Ah, Krispy Kreme. We can hardly wait.

VIEWPOINT

Marketing mania: message overload

Here's a scary thought. Every day the average person is exposed to 3,000 marketing messages, according to a psychological study.

I'm not going to start keeping track, but those messages come to us in all sorts of ways—TV, radio, newspapers, periodicals, products, clothing (logos), billboards, cars, containers, etc.

Fortunately, we don't even notice most of those messages. Otherwise the old noodle would be pretty cluttered up.

While reading this newspaper, you'll be exposed to between 300 and 400 advertisements if you read from cover to cover. Newspapers are considered one of the most user friendly advertising mediums because readers can pick and choose. Newspaper ads aren't a "hand-around-the-throat" medium like TV commercials.

So don't blame your favorite hometown newspaper for message overload.

All that marketing stuff is fired at the rate of approximately three per minute. That's considering about 17 waking hours. What's most unnerving is looking down at your shoes. Probably a logo. Look at your shirt or blouse. Another logo.

All the folks in marketing and advertising know that those commercial messages are pretty short lived. That's their challenge. To get us to remember. Phew. I get weary just trying to sort out the barrage.

Maybe that's why the memorable messages come at happy, relaxed times. Visual and audio surprises. Like the beautiful barn around the turn in the road with an ad for Redman Chewing Tobacco. Or the youngster waiting on radio for a Salerno butter cookie. Who doesn't feel good wearing a Ralph Lauren logo jacket?

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

With split screen Internet catching on, that 3,000 count likely will become history. More messages. Hey, gang! We can't handle that, can't we? Remember, we can turn on, but we can tune out, too.

Happy gardener

Add Bill Durkin to the list of former elected officials who vouch happily that there is life after politics. The former Waukegan mayor is enjoying a summer without meetings. Neighbors report that the Durkin garden has never looked better. The long-time official has discovered a Durkin gene for working the soil successfully. His family regards Bill as a throwback to his grandfather, a celebrated plantsman.

Solving a mystery

Leave it to the ladies. They'll find a way. Suzzi Glunz-Holtgreive and Linda Scholz are going to work on marketing a wine-filled chocolate. The delectable will feature a wine from the Glunz Family Winery & Cellars and a chocolate from Something's Brewing, an over-achieving coffee shop featuring a wide range of goodies including top drawer candy. Just how do those tricky candy makers produce a chocolate with a liquid center? We can all learn something by watching the two Grayslake businesswomen solve their problem.

Campaign quirk

If State Sen. Patrick O'Malley (R-Palos Park) is serious about winning the Republican nomination for governor, he'll need to clean up his act on the campaign trail. In two recent Lake County appearances, he came across to the electorate like a cold fish. He marched and waved in the Lake Villa Centennial Parade without cracking a smile. At a picnic of influential construction contractors in Grayslake, O'Malley displayed a distracting quirk. He'd keep talking to friends and shaking hands with strangers at the same time, failing to recognize persons introduced to him. Hey, Pat! Making eye contact is Campaign 101.

Young learners

Hutchins Institute, the life-long learning department at Shimer College, has students as young as eight. Established to provide both pre-college and after-college learning, children in grades two through five can engage in after-school studies at the campus off Sheridan Rd., Waukegan. President Don Moon said Shimer is indebted to retired Congressman John Porter for arranging a special federal appropriation of $230,000 for the Institute.

One man's family

Biting insects have been rough on both man and beast this summer, at least in our family. Sadie the golden retriever had to see the doctor about an infection on her face resulting from an insect sting. Her master has been taking antibiotics for a badly swollen elbow caused by a bite from an unknown flying creature.

COMMENTARY

RV owners—just good citizens

By PAT DIEBOLD

Wilderness? Where on earth did that come from? Norman Geary seems to be missing the basic point of this whole issue. RV owners in Lake County are not interested in "wilderness." They are not hauling in tents each weekend to sleep in sleeping bags and eat beans over an open fire.

Many RV owners in Lake County are professionals—lawyers, nurses, business owners—who enjoy spending their weekends on the Chain. They want to swim, boat, fish, ice fish, snowmobile, and ski.

Many are retired people who come back to Lake County for the summer months to spend time with their families. Many are just nice families who enjoy spending their weekends together at the lake. Many have spent over $30,000 for their RV alone.

They probably bought it in Lake County and paid sales tax here. They spent more money putting a nice deck on their unit. They paid Lake County for a permit for that deck and Lake County happily took their money. Lumber, nails, etc., all bought in Lake County.

Then they bought a boat in Lake County. Maybe a wave runner or two. More sales tax. They have to put gas in their "toys." More sales tax. Waterway stickers—more money. Every weekend when they come to their RV they stop and buy groceries. Sales tax. They go to restaurants, bars, etc. and spend a lot of money. More sales tax, more revenue for Antioch and

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Cox downstate downsizing Sen. Durbin

John Cox spent the past week scouring the by-ways of southern Illinois to build support for his quest for the Republican nomination for U.S. Senate in the March, 2002, primary.

Cox, who finished a respectable third in the 11-candidate scramble last year for the GOP nomination for Congress in the 10th District, is the only announced candidate to take on redoubtable Democrat Dick Durbin, who is running for his third term.

A resident of Glenview, Cox is out to visit every one of Illinois' 103 counties. "I'm getting close," he told Party Lines.

A conservative and pro-life candidate, the lawyer-CPA and successful businessman sees himself as a clear choice between Durbin, a knee-jerk liberal and reliable supporter of Senate Majority Leader Tom Daschle, his party's great Bush baiter.

Cox scoffed at being characterized as a sacrificial GOP political lamb to do battle with a Democratic giant. "He's no giant. He's a pygmy. He's a divider, not a leader. Durbin won't even take a stand on O'Hare," bristled the North Shore Republican. Cox quickly stated his own airport position—get Peotone up and running and then address O'Hare problems.

Making a cell phone call to Viewpoint from Effingham, Cox described a warm downstate reception and voter support for Republican initiatives for economic development in the chronically depressed area.

Asked about the possibility of Evanston millionaire Jack Ryan challenging his "lone wolf" status, Cox replied, "I don't think he's running. Last I heard he's going to teach school this fall." Then Cox mused about all the Ryans Republicans will be sorting out in the coming campaign.

Candidate promise

State Sen. Pat Welch (D-LaSalle) has promised to visit Lake County in his bid for season.

Sniper Stolman

County Board Rep. David Stolman (R-Buffalo Grove) keeps talking, only less and less of his colleagues are listening. Stolman, who covets the chairmanship, has been shut out of participation in leadership activities. Some members of the pro-environment majority have been critical of his spotty meeting attendance. They are particularly rankled by his fervent support of the controversial Rte. 53 extension which would bypass his home turf. County Board Chair Suzi Schmidt makes no secret of her dislike for Stolman's sniping at her administration.

Future chair?

Waukegan Attorney Steve Simonian is being mentioned as a possible replacement of John Schullen as Lake County Republican chairman, a party position that is filled by vote of precinct committeemen after the primary election. Simonian's ex-wife, Antionette, is executive director of the Lake County Republican Federation.

Helander helpers

At least 14 mayors have signed on early to support County Clerk Willard Helander's re-election bid. Most of them are expected to be on hand for Helander's fund event Thursday, Sept. 6, at Country Squire featuring a speedway theme. Helander also is listing a healthy number of other elected officials as backers.

Early birds

Democrats will be getting up early Friday, Aug. 31, for their annual golf outing at Brae Loch Golf course, Rte. 45. They'll have breakfast at 6:30 a.m. and start swinging with a shotgun start at 8 p.m. Because of the Labor Day Holiday weekend, their aim is to have lunch at 1 p.m. and then turn to family activities, according to Recorder of Deeds Mary Ellen Vanderventer.

the Democratic nomination for state treasurer in the 2001 primary. "It's Welch, just like the grape juice," reminds the veteran Democrat, making his first run for state-wide office. In recent years, state office Democrats have steered clear of Lake County.

In the limelight

Normally on the sidelines as press secretary and district director for Congressman Mark Kirk (R-Wilmette), Dodie McCracken will be on stage for an address to the Lake Forest/Lake Bluff Women's Republican Club Lecture and lunch. McCracken will be speaking Wednesday, Sept. 19, at the home of Julie Whitehead Holdsworth, 1213 Estate Lane, Lake Forest.

Disposal problem

State Rep. Jack D. Franks (D-Wonder Lake) continues to play a leadership role in handling the knotty problem of finding a suitable sediment disposal site for the Fox Waterway Agency. Franks has arranged another meeting for 7 p.m., Thursday, Aug. 30, at Cotton Creek School, Island Lake, to work out a satisfactory solution. Island Lake area residents are incensed that river and lake dredgings were earmarked to be dumped in a residential area.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

No solution

Extending Route 53 would not result in the relief of traffic woes its proponents are suggesting. Our traffic congestion is by no means limited to the areas that would have the road, Buffalo Grove, Long Grove, Mundelein and Grayslake.

The east-west problems on Routes 22, 60, 176, and 137 would not be addressed by this $1.8 billion road. We need to have improvements to existing roads such as is being done on Route 45.

In addition to cost and inherent problems, this road also would destroy more acres of Lake County Forest Preserve land and wetlands than any of the possible alternatives. The beautiful Almond Marsh wetlands, a rookery for great blue herons and home to endangered yellow headed blackbirds, would be completely paved over. Our society is constantly hearing about the destruction of the rainforest with cries to protect the wildlife. Here is the same situation in our own backyards.

Citizens of Lake County need to let our officials know that this is not the solution we need.

Good space use

The Open Space Plan for Fremont Township promises much good for the township.

If desirable acreage can be bought from willing sellers for $25,000 an acre, the Open Space District will be able to buy 400 acres of open space for all to enjoy, and will lessen the impact of development. Assume that 80 percent of this land is suitable for building: 320 acres if built upon with only four houses per acre would mean an increase of 2,560 in adult population, and, according to tables of the Illinois School Consulting Service, 260 students.

In the first year of the plan, the Open Space District is only going to require $97 in taxes on a residence worth $200,000. The amount will go down in future years, and the bonds will all be paid off in 20 years.

The plan might be called a "tax avoidance" proposal because it will prevent the need for taxes for government service, sewer, water, roads, schools, fire and police protection, if 320 acres were developed.

Are lefties smarter, better looking?

Our grandson Alex, 15 months old, is beginning to show a hand preference. Apparently, he is going to be a lefty. Is that a blessing or a curse, I wonder.

Alex already is using his left hand to pick up and play with toys and grab for his food.

Dr. Robert Needleman, a pediatrician, tells America Online's Parenting site, "About one person out of 10 is left-handed. There are some real disadvantages to being a lefty in a right-handed world—difficulties with tools (everything from scissors to chain saws) and awkwardness at dinner parties if the chairs are close together."

The children's doctor could have added such things geared to accommodate right-handers as handshakes (now mostly high-fives), door knobs and slot machines.

These only seem like minor inconveniences considering that in colonial America lefties were actually thought to be witches and sometimes were put to death.

But lefties have a move afoot (the left foot, probably) to celebrate their difference. In fact, we just missed the 26th annual International Left-Handers Day. It was Aug. 13, a date selected to poke fun at the superstitions surrounding left-handedness.

Jack Fincher, in his book "Lefties," wrote: "Today, every lefty knows that being left-handed is a sign of special genius."

THE PFARR CORNER

Jerry Pfarr

Left-handers International, in Topeka, Kan., says research has shown southpaws, because of their different pattern of brain organization, are more creative, intuitive and imaginative.

It was baseball that hung the southpaw label on lefties—about 100 years ago. All the games were day games then and parks were built so batters faced east and thus were not troubled by the afternoon sun. Pitchers faced west and the left-handed ones thus threw with their "south" paws.

I inquired further into this subject with a left-handed woman friend who just happened to be wearing a T-shirt with "Lefty" emblazoned across the back.

"We are not the spawn of the devil," she clarified. "My grandfather, who was left-handed, gloated over the fact he had a grandchild, me, who also was a southpaw. He thought we were a special breed, smarter than most folk, and over the years I have learned he was absolutely right. We're smarter and more creative. "Did I mention better-looking?"

Another left-handed woman friend, a golfer, says when she bought her left-handed clubs the pro asked if she also wanted a left-handed bag (ha-ha).

"We're the unknown oppressed," she said. "You have your minority groups, your women and your left-handed."

"My biggest frustration is, if you're left-handed and a smoker the ashtrays in the car are on the wrong side. So I keep burning holes in my clothes."

She agreed left-handed people are more artistic and creative. "Do lefties dream differently than righties?" I asked.

She laughed. "We dream much more creatively."

Famous left-handers include Albert Einstein, Benjamin Franklin, Julius Caesar, Marilyn Monroe, Carol Burnett, Goldie Hawn, Cary Grant, David Letterman, Dick Van Dyke and Fred Astaire.

Also, Jay Leno, Jerry Seinfeld, Jim Carrey, Oprah Winfrey, Robert DeNiro, Tom Cruise and Kermit the Frog.

Infamous left-handers include Jack the Ripper, the Boston Strangler and Bill Clinton.

Other left-handed U.S. presidents were James Garfield, Harry Truman, Gerald Ford and George Bush the Elder.

Lake County.

The best part is that they don't take any of their tax money back. They don't sue the schools, libraries, etc. They leave their money here and go home. The "permanent residents" benefit from that money. Why wouldn't you be happy about that?

Aside from the tax money, they do put a lot of money into local businesses—RV dealers, boat dealers, canvas shops, hardware stores, gas stations, grocery stores, restaurants, bars. How about the movie theaters, video stores, laundromats, liquor stores, and gift shops. Let's not forget the Antioch Craft Fairs and the Taste of Antioch. Take a look around Antioch in winter when the tourists are gone, Mr. Geary. The restaurants and shops are hurting. They need more than the "permanent residents." They NEED the tourist dollars. Just ask them.

The RV parks have not "sprouted up in recent years." They were here long before most of the "permanent residents." And, if you would actually read the new ordinance, you would see that there is nothing "gentle" about what the county is doing.

They don't want the parks ushered into compliance. They want them gone.

Editor's note: Pat Diebold is president of the Lake County RV Park Assn. and owner/operator of Parrot's Cove Resort and Bar, rural Antioch. The following commentary is offered as a response to views submitted by Norman Geary, former Lake County Board chairman, on the question of regulations of RV businesses.

Neal golf outings benefit local charities

Assistance in Healthcare, a not for profit 501 (c) (3) foundation that assists cancer patients with their non-medical expenses is $1,000 richer thanks to Mr. Nick Gialelis, owner of Star Lite Family Restaurant in Zion and Bob Neal, Illinois State Central Committeeman.

Representing Bob Neal for the check passing were Zion Township Supervisor Cheri Neal Ditzig and Gialelis. They presented the donation to Assistance in Healthcare President Andrea Inman and members of the foundation's Board of Directors.

The donation is the result of a raffle drawing held at the Ninth Annual Lake County Invitational Golf Outing hosted by Bob Neal, the Eighth District Republican State Central Committeeman. Last year, the outing held two drawings, also won by Gialelis, and by George Lawrence of Bertrand Bowling Lanes of Waukegan. Lawrence named the Family Service Agency of North Lake County as his charity of choice, and that agency was presented a check for $1,000 earlier this year.

The drawings for charity were repeated this year at the 10th Annual Lake County Invitational Golf Outing, which happened earlier this week at Midlane Country Club in Wadsworth.

Protect your children from lead poisoning

Are you planning to paint or renovate your house? Do you live near an industrial factory? Was your home built before 1978? If you answered yes to any of these questions, you and your family may unknowingly be exposed to high levels of lead.

According to the Illinois Department of Public Health, each year, lead poisoning affects an estimated 170,000 children under the age of 6 in Illinois. Tony Burda, chief poison specialist at the Illinois Poison Center (IPC), suggests that all caregivers of children assess their homes and play areas for risk factors for lead poisoning, and take precautions to reduce children's exposure to lead. The IPC, which offers free poison prevention and treatment advice via a statewide hot line (1-800-942-5969), handled approximately 100 cases involving exposure to lead last year.

Lead poisoning occurs when lead dust is breathed or lead paint is eaten. Lead is most commonly found in paint on both exterior and interior areas of homes that were constructed prior to 1978. Most homes built before 1960 contained paint with high concentrations of lead in it. In addition to peeling paint or chips being a hazard, lead dust particles also are a household hazard. They come from lead paint and other sources, such as the soil or contaminated clothing brought home from work. High levels of lead dust can build up on window sills and floors, as well as when older paint is disturbed (such as during remodeling).

Many areas of Illinois also contain high levels of lead in the soil; lead has been deposited in the soil from leaded gasoline, lead paint dust, and industries that use lead. Other sources of lead include water from old lead piping, food that was grown in lead-saturated soil, and earthenware or fishing products that are made with lead or lead-based paint or glaze.

According to Burda, lead poisoning can occur at any age, however, children under the age of 6 are at higher risk of lead poisoning because their bodies absorb the lead more easily and the lead can build up to higher levels. To protect young children, health care providers suggest that all children be assessed for his or her blood, Burda recommends that parents identify and remove the source of lead, or remove the children from the environment.

The following preventive steps can be taken to reduce exposure to lead:

- Clean up chipping or peeling paint from inside and outside your home
- Mop floors and wipe window sills by using a damp mop or cloth and a detergent with phosphate (such as automatic dishwasher detergent)

- Hire a qualified contractor to remove lead-based paint
- Shower and change clothes before going home after working with lead in your job or hobby
- Encourage children to play in grassy areas of the yard or playground to decrease the amount of soil that they may touch or track into the home on their shoes
- Wash your children's hands before they eat or sleep, especially after playing outside
- Wash toys, stuffed animals and bedding regularly
- Eat foods high in iron and calcium to help reduce the amount of lead your body absorbs
- Cook and drink from the cold water tap because hot water and water that has stood in the pipes for a long time contains more lead

Perplexing potty problems

Hi Dr. Singer,

We are just potty training our daughter and recently have found her to be becoming fearful of going to the potty. We cannot really pin this on an event that has happened and wondered

If you could maybe tell us if you have seen this before and what caused it? Thank you. L.O.

Hi L.O.

I have seen lots of things cause this. I would recommend first that no matter what you read here, that you make a visit to your pediatrician to make sure everything is "A-OK" down there.

I have seen kids get scared of going to the potty because they have a very hard bowel movement once. It hurts and then they are afraid to go back and try again. This one is tough, because it is almost like a conditioned response, but it needs to be tended to because I have also seen kids who are afraid to go, hold it until it becomes a real problem. At that point they can become very impacted and the problem that started out somewhat small escalates and then becomes more painful and thus, more scary. In the cases where a child has over-hard bowel movements, I have recommended a visit to the Pediatrician to discuss how to soften things up a bit. There are medications that do this job very well. Your Doctor can also tell you about dietary considerations to help this problem. Usually, if the child can have even one bowel movement that is not scary, he or she begins to trust the process a little bit more and can become more comfortable with it.

Another thing I have seen before is the "over-ingratiated" child who has learned that whining about the potty brings lots and lots of personal attention. This one is also hard because, of course, parents do not want to ignore their child in such a seemingly desperate situation. In the past, with my clients, I have usually recommended that if they even suspect this and they have already been through the Pediatrician and the physical rule-out, that they try and tone down the attention a bit. I have recommended that they can still sit with the child on the potty, but maybe don't do as many personal things. I have had parents tell me that they read books to their child and sing with their child on the potty to try and get the child to go. In many cases, those very things were getting the child to not go so that the attention would continue. So, I have told these parents to sit with the child, but not sing or read. Be there, but don't entertain. I have also told them to try this in shorter bursts as opposed to really long stays. If it is an attention thing, this should help significantly because the child is no longer getting all the attention for not going and is still being required to sit on the potty.

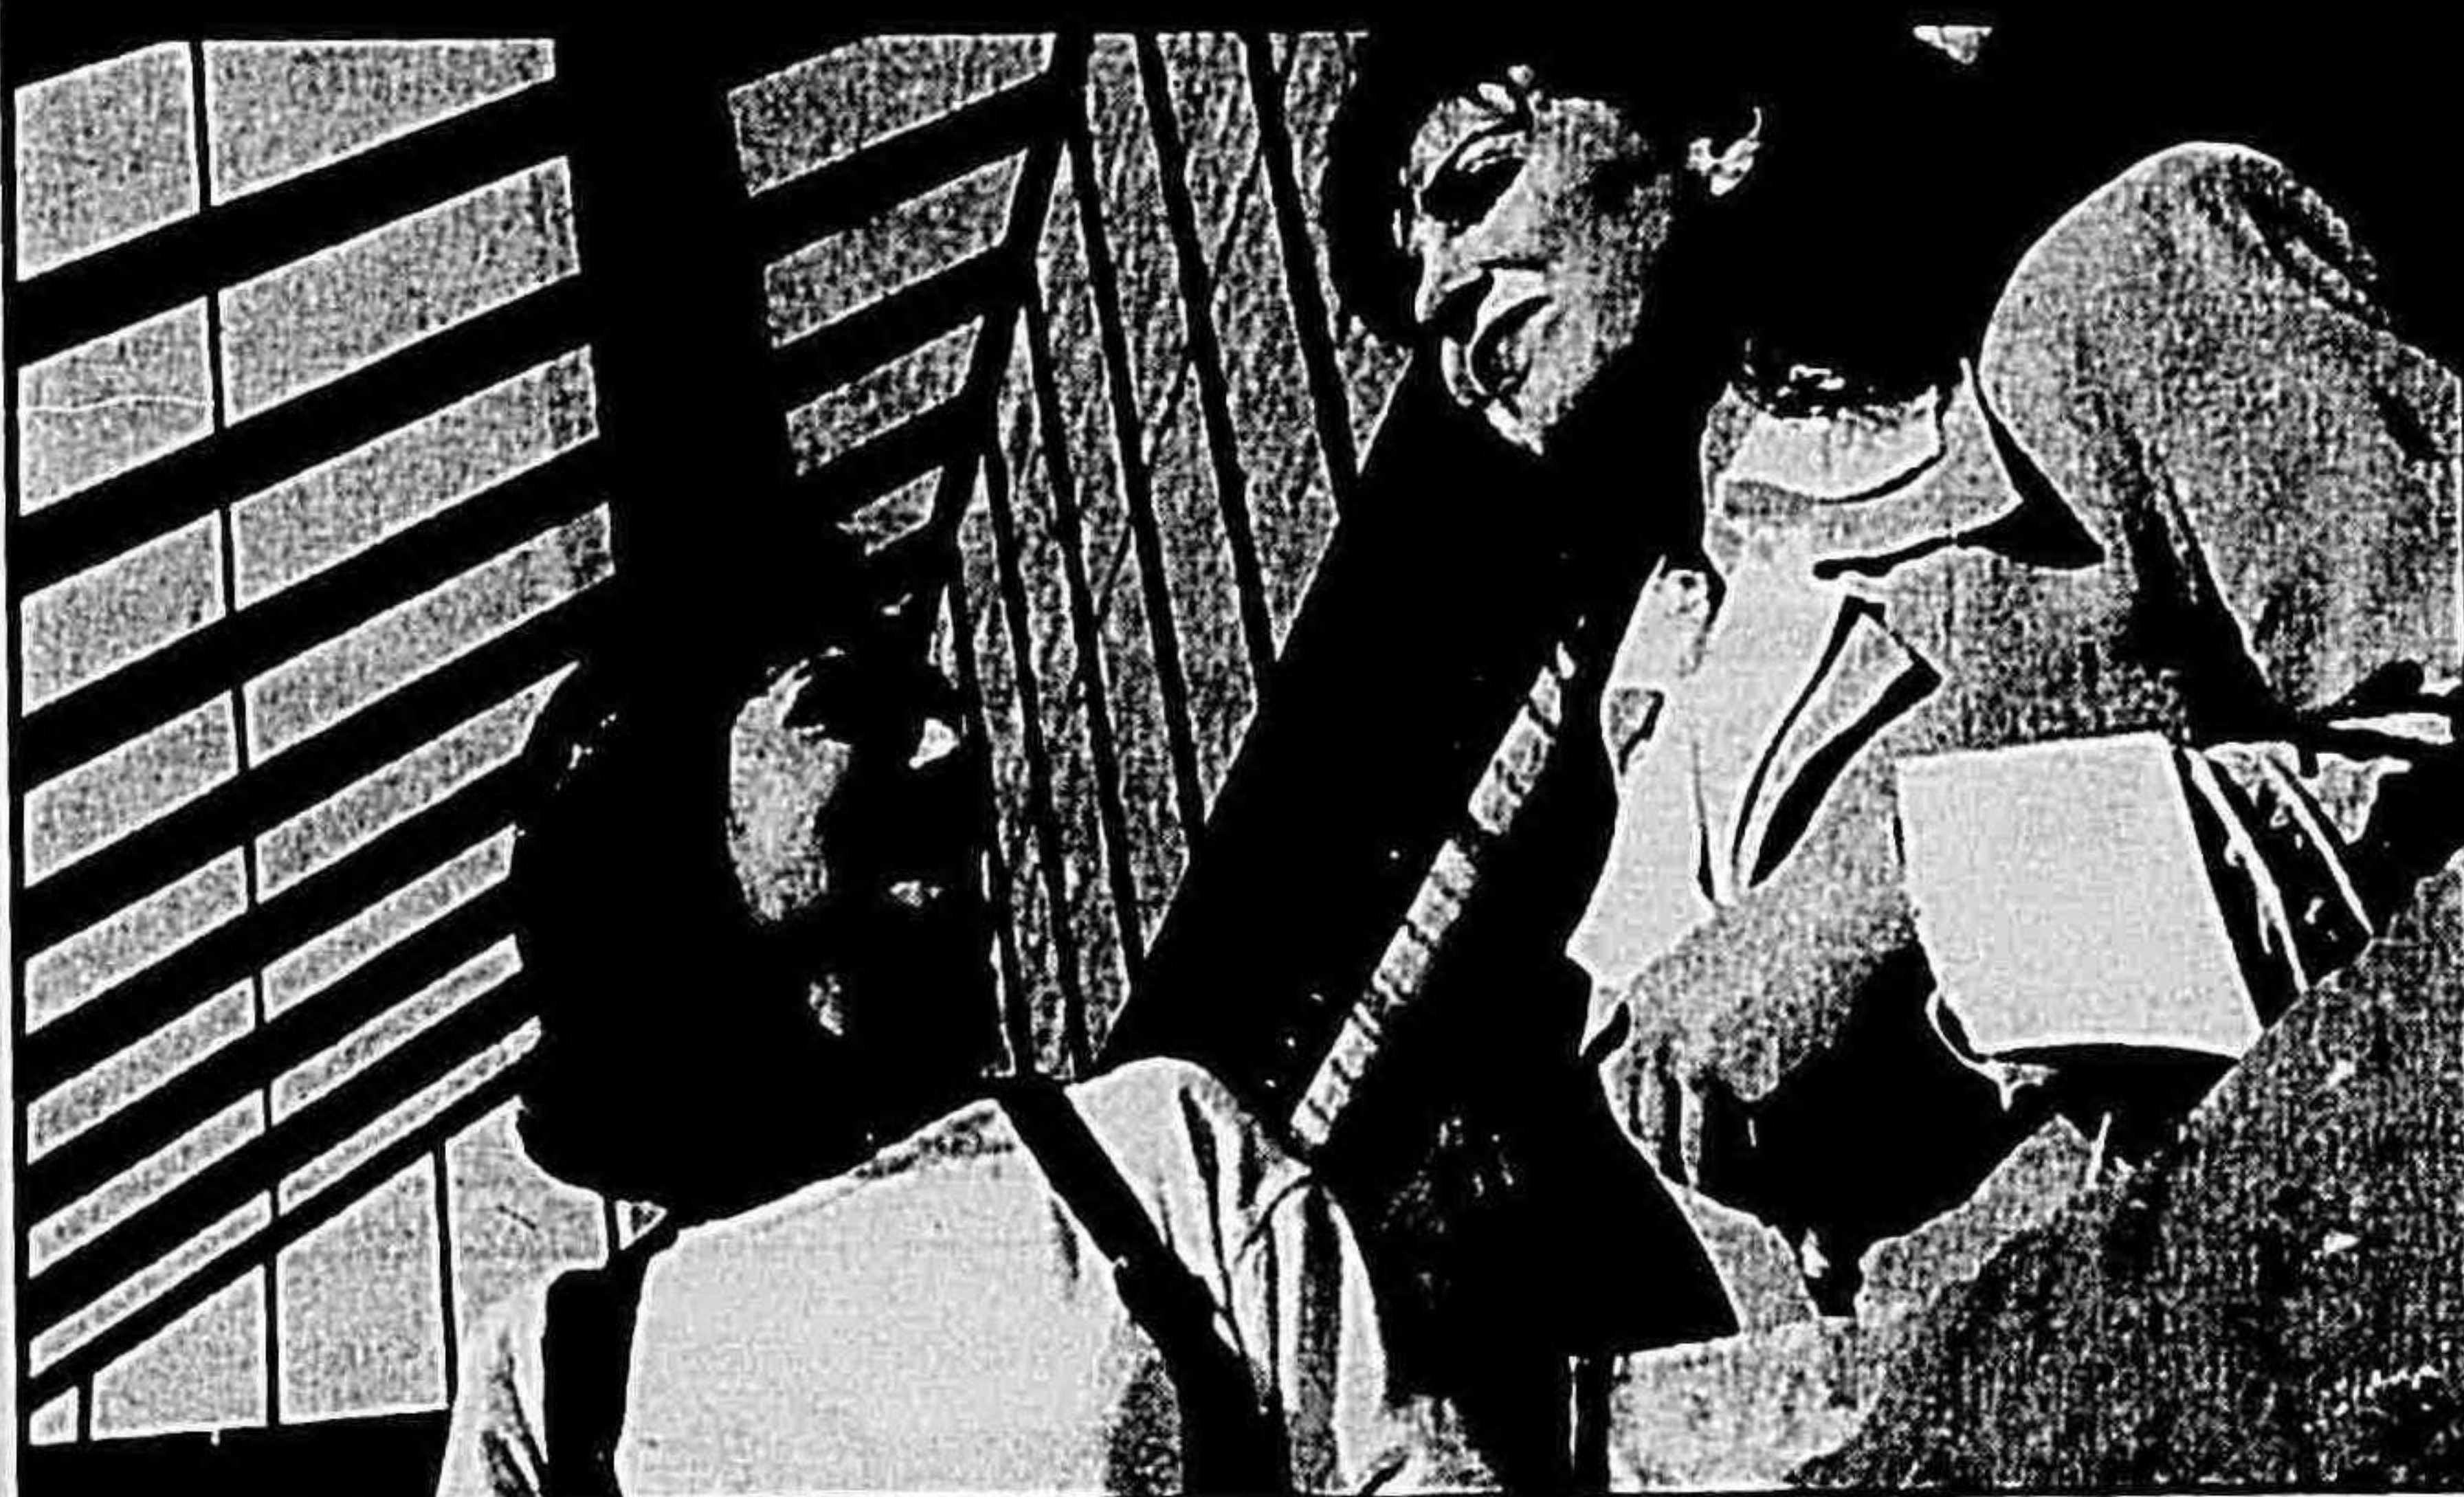

Then there is the child who is afraid of the "look" of the toilet. I have seen some older young children who are afraid that they are going to fall in or get eaten by the toilet. Let's face it! A toilet can be a fearsome looking thing for a very small person! In that case, reading children's books about toilets or talking about it can be o.k. as long as it is not done while the child is sitting on the toilet.

You can do the education and stress relief in the child's room and then still do the potty like I mentioned above. Be sure your child is old enough for a toilet before you switch to one. There are also potty seats that fit in the toilet to make it look less scary. That can be useful too! The one thing I would not do is allow an older child who is using the toilet but scared of it, to go back to a potty seat. This is like telling him that his fears can be relieved by escaping the feared object. That may set him up to expect to escape from things that scare him in the future. He could miss a lot of things that way! Phobias develop by repeated escape from feared objects. That escape becomes the calming factor. The person never learns to face or conquer their fears because they keep escaping before they get a chance to deal with it. This can happen if you allow the child's fear to win. If the child faces it and finds that it is not scary over and over again, eventually, it won't be scary at all.

Be gentle, do what you need (like what I mentioned above) to get the situation to be more comfortable for the child, but be careful to not give attention or escape for fearful behavior. Again, check with Pediatrician first to rule out physical causes for the fear. Happy pottyting!

Rustic accessories the new buzz in home decor

As the cooler seasons draw closer, thoughts and activities drift slowly from the outdoors to the inside, and the annual human version of hibernation begins. We re-acclimate to shorter days and longer, colder nights. There is a sense that the house must be buttoned-up for the winter.

More time is spent indoors, and so this is also when many people decide to give their home decor a new look. Many people are re-discovering the beauty of primitive, rustic decor. The wonderful part about decorating with primitive accessories is that they don't have to be perfect. Since many early items were utilitarian and made on the spot for a specific use, they were often flawed: corners were not square, tops were not level and sides were not smooth.

Because there are more options from which to choose today, these rustic pieces may not be used as once intended. Often it's just a matter of rethinking for today's needs. A dry sink, for example, is better used for display than for cleaning. A galvanized bucket is better suited today for holding bath accessories or children's art supplies; and a tin-punch pie safe is more useful for storing almost anything than the pies for which it was built. An old trunk turned on its end can be opened to display a variety of old quilts and blankets stacked colorfully, with a table lamp above.

Basic wooden furniture, whether painted and peeling, or scratched and dented from years of use, is finding its way back into homes today. Because these are not fine antiques, but basic home furnishings, they often cost less than similar pieces purchased new. In an active home where items are used daily, dents and scratches are the norm. These basic pieces blend nicely in a casual space, giving an eclectic look to any room.

Decorative artists and crafters are seizing upon this style to provide buyers with accents to blend with this decor, and today there are "new" primitives to complete the look. Floor and wall treatments can bring this eclectic look together. Although wall-to-wall carpet does not lend itself to rustic styles, it is a fact of life in many homes. On carpeted floors, try an area needlepoint, rag or braided rug between two pieces of furniture to emphasize the style. Use a twin grip pad to keep it from shifting on the pile. This also works perfectly on natural surfaces such as wood, stone, brick and tile.

On smooth surfaces, try rugs or consider a floor mat. These are a 21st century adaptation of an 18th century craft. Made from primed canvas, then painted with acrylics and sealed, they are perfect under a kitchen table, in a mud room, under a baby's high chair, or in any area that sees debris and moisture. Use a rubber pad under all rugs or mats to keep them from slipping. Check this new twist on an old solution at www.kidzklths@yahoo.com.

One of the newest old designs making a re-appearance is the simple bee. From antiquity, bees have evoked images of wealth, industriousness and nurturing. The phrases "busy as a bee," or "she has a bee in her bonnet," and even the "birds and the bees" are common. Even the word "medicine" has its roots in honey or mead, an alcoholic drink made from the honeycomb.

To make vignettes within a room, use items in unexpected places. An easy accent is a small quilt or needlepoint rug. In your breakfast area, drape a quilt over a sideboard or your table when not in use. Hang a shelf 3/4 of the way down a wall to display treasures, but keep it simple. Use wallpaper above the shelf and a border or hanging pegs below. In the family room, flank a fireplace with old painted chairs, place a rug between them and you have a cozy place to warm your hands after coming in from the cold. Use a simple small print or a plaid on the walls in a color that contrasts with the chairs, and then use a border, or a combination of borders, to bring out the color. If you have a mantle, keep it simple with a candle or oil lamp and a couple of toys or utensils. By keeping things uncomplicated, motifs can be changed seasonally. The focal point of the family room, for example, can be moved away from the fireplace over to a window, and the kitchen tablecloth changed to something lighter, such as cheesecloth.

Tough penalties for ecstasy instituted

Gov. George H. Ryan, signed into law by Kelley's Law strengthens penalties for selling ecstasy and other so called "club-drugs" and expands offenses of drug-induced homicide and drug-induced infliction of great bodily harm to include the unlawful delivery of any controlled substances.

"This bill strengthens the penalties for people who give drugs to our kids," Ryan said. "It's one that is overdue, and one that I hope will serve notice to dealers, that you will be punished severely if you hurt children with your drugs."

The law provides that the offenses of drug-induced homicide and drug-induced infliction of great bodily harm includes the unlawful delivery of any controlled substance, rather than specifically listed controlled substances.

Kelley's Law also places ecstasy and other related "club drugs" into the same category as the most serious drugs such as; cocaine, heroin, morphine, methamphetamine and LSD. Currently the penalties for unlawful delivery or possession of ecstasy and the others is much lower, which may contribute to their popularity.

"We've seen problems caused by teenagers and others experimenting with ecstasy increase," Ryan said. "It is a dangerous drug that kills and we are sending both a warning and a message by toughening the penalties for selling and distributing ecstasy."

The law, which becomes effective Jan. 1, 2001, was named after 23-year-old Kelley Baker, who died in November, 1999 of an ecstasy overdose. Her mother, Kate Patton, has been instrumental in the passage of this law and has since started the Kelley McEnery Baker Foundation for the prevention, education and awareness of ecstasy.

Internet safety talks booked for Sept. 12

Edward J. Gonwa, Lake County regional superintendent of schools, and Robert D. Jones, Chief of Police for Gurnee, announce that a training seminar on school violence and the Internet will be held on Sept. 12, to coincide with the county-wide school institute day.

The seminar, which is sponsored by the Lake County Juvenile Justice Council and the 19th Judicial Circuit, will be held at the Gurnee Holiday Inn, located at 6161 W. Grand Ave., in Gurnee, from 8 a.m.-noon.

Featured speakers include a variety of community leaders, including the Honorable Jane Waller, chief judge of the 19th Judicial Circuit, Michael J. Waller, Lake County State's Attorney, and Louise Loud, director of Juvenile Court Services.

A. Lynn Himes, Heather Brickman and Vanessa Clohessy, attorneys-at-law, will provide insight on the current law requiring schools to adopt and adhere to an Internet Safety Policy. Additional presenters include members of the Lake County State's Attorney's office, the Lake County Sheriff's office, and the Waukegan Police Department.

The seminar is directed to educators, school administrators, school counselors, school security officers, school resource officers, juvenile officers and law enforcement officers. Topics will address the proper procedures regarding the Internet and its safe use in the schools, valuable resources within the community, and better interaction and communication between schools and law enforcement in addressing Internet violence.

The seminar is funded by the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs. There is no registration fee, however, call to register and for further information. There is no on-site registration.

Crisis-line training starts Sept. 13

Connection's fall "Power of Listening" training class will be held Sept. 13, 15 and 20, the PADS Crisis Services office, 3001 Green Bay Road, Building No. 5, North Chicago. Classes will be held from 6:30-10 p.m. on Sept. 13 and 20 and from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. on Sept. 15. Participants need to attend all three classes to fulfill the course requirement.

The course is led by Curt Wennerdahl, a licensed clinical social worker and university instructor. It is designed primarily to prepare volunteers to work on Connection's 24-hour crisis and referral hotline. However, those not planning to become crisis line volunteers are also welcome. The training has proven valuable for addressing many other personal and professional challenges. The course focuses on various approaches to crisis intervention, including suicide prevention. It features the development of skills such as how to actively listen and properly evaluate circumstances and needs in crisis situations.

There is no cost for the course. For some students there is an option to receive credits through the College of Lake County. All participants who successfully complete the course receive a printed manual and a certificate of course completion.

Connection's crisis lines operate around the clock, seven days a week. Trained crisis interventionists are available for anyone with a need to talk as well as giving referral information about area human service agencies and organizations, self-help groups and other resources.

To register or to obtain further information on the "Power of Listening" course, call the Connection office at 847-689-4357, Ext. 104.

Lake County Center for Independent Living receives $20,000 grant

The Lake County Center for Independent Living was awarded a $20,000 grant from the Catholic Campaign for Human Development to implement its new Community Access Program.

Many businesses and programs in Lake County are not accessible to residents with disabilities. The Community Access Program was developed to increase the accessibility—and thus the opportunities for social involvement—for people with disabilities in their own communities. Program participants will be taught rights and responsibilities under various disability-related laws, advocacy skills, and cost-effective methods by which businesses can improve their access. People with disabilities, businesses and the communities themselves will all benefit from this program.

The Lake County Center for Independent Living is a not-for-profit non-residential organization that assists people with disabilities to become independent and advocates for social justice and equality for people with disabilities.

For further information on the Community Access Program or the Lake County Center for Independent Living, call either Lori Clark or Barbara Anderson at 949-4440 (V/TTY).

ALL OTHER HOUSEHOLDS: If a household's income is at or below the level shown on the income scale, children are eligible for either free or reduced-price meal services or free milk. Households must provide the following information: (1) the names of all household members; (2) the Social Security number of the adult household member signing the application, or the word "none" if the adult does not have a Social Security number; (3) the amount of income each household member received last month and where it comes from (wages, child support, etc.); and (4) the signature of an adult household member.

The information on the application may be verified by school or other officials at any time during the school year.

If income information is provided and children are approved for free or reduced-price meal services or free milk, households must tell the school when their household income increases by $50 or more per month ($600 per year) or when their household size decreases. If a food stamp or TANF case number was listed, the household must tell the school when they no longer receive food stamps or TANF for their child.

Households may apply for benefits at any time during the school year. Households that are not eligible now but have a decrease in household income, an increase in household size or have a household member that becomes unemployed, should fill out an application at that time.

In certain cases foster children are eligible for free or reduced-price meal services or free milk regardless of the household income. Households that have foster children living with them and wish to apply free or reduced price for meal services or free milk for them should complete the application.

Households dissatisfied with the ruling of the official may wish to discuss it with the school. Households also have the right to a fair hearing. This can be done by calling or writing the following official:

Children from households that meet Federal guidelines are eligible for free or reduced-price meal services or free milk.

All meals served must meet the U.S. Department of Agriculture meal requirements. However, if a child has been determined by a doctor to have a disability and the disability would prevent the child from eating the regular school meal, this school will make substitutions prescribed by the doctor. If a substitution is needed, there will be no extra charge for the meal. If you believe your child needs substitutions because of a disability, please get in touch with us for further information.

Application forms are being sent to all homes with a letter to parents or guardians. To apply for free or reduced-price meal services or free milk, households must complete the application as soon as possible, sign it and return it to the school. Additional copies of the application form are available at the principal's office in each school. Households should answer all applicable questions on the form. An application which does not contain all the required information cannot be processed and approved by the school. The required information is as follows:

FOOD STAMP/TANF HOUSEHOLDS: Households that currently receive food stamps or "Temporary Assistance for Needy Families" (TANF) for their child(ren), only have to list the child(ren)'s name and food stamp or TANF case number and sign the application. Link card number cannot be used.

ALL OTHER HOUSEHOLDS: If a household's income is at or below the level shown on the income scale, children are eligible for either free or reduced-price meal services or free milk. Households must provide the following information: (1) the names of all household members; (2) the Social Security number of the adult household member signing the application, or the word "none" if the adult does not have a Social Security number; (3) the amount of income each household member received last month and where it comes from (wages, child support, etc.); and (4) the signature of an adult household member.

The information on the application may be verified by school or other officials at any time during the school year.

If income information is provided and children are approved for free or reduced-price meal services or free milk, households must tell the school when their household income increases by $50 or more per month ($600 per year) or when their household size decreases. If a food stamp or TANF case number was listed, the household must tell the school when they no longer receive food stamps or TANF for their child.

Households may apply for benefits at any time during the school year. Households that are not eligible now but have a decrease in household income, an increase in household size or have a household member that becomes unemployed, should fill out an application at that time.

In certain cases foster children are eligible for free or reduced-price meal services or free milk regardless of the household income. Households that have foster children living with them and wish to apply free or reduced price for meal services or free milk for them should complete the application.

Households dissatisfied with the ruling of the official may wish to discuss it with the school. Households also have the right to a fair hearing. This can be done by calling or writing the following official:

Open communication stressed at NSC Leadership Conference

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

More than 600 student-athletes and coaches gathered for a pre-season leadership conference sponsored by the North Suburban Conference.

"The idea is to bring people together. We had 650 student-athletes and 72 facilitators, half students and half coaches," said John Martin, athletic director for host school Stevenson.

"In the group sessions, they gave us situations and asked us to rank the actions of people involved. It was pretty realistic," said Brian Malone of Wauconda, one of the facilitators.

Michael Brandwein, a motivational speaker, addressed the student-athletes in six general sessions over the two-day conference. "It was pretty realistic," he said.

Students tackled such issues as being a good listener, as well as whether or not athletes should be held to higher standards than the rest of the student body.

Athletes in one small group stressed that such duties as captaincy and being an athlete is a privilege. They said captains should have a higher standard of conduct because they were chosen or elected to their positions on teams.

"People viewed things differently. It has to do with the morals they have and their experiences," said Charlie Mann, a facilitator and former Libertyville volleyball player.

"How do you come together with such different viewpoints," said facilitator Sara Karlin.

Students in last year's conference could participate as facilitators this year.

Answers included compromise and working on a common ground toward a group goal.

"One form of discipline may work for one person, but not on another," one athlete said.

Athletes said if there is a negative incident, it reflects poorly on the school.

Brandwein, of Lincolnshire, asked students of their rankings of individuals' actions in a case where one person cheats, another is a superstar athlete and a team captain who does nothing to stop another's drinking or cheating. A coach tells her team to win at all costs and when a student is suspended from competition due to harassing calls, another teacher looked the 'other way' so the athlete could compete at state.

"We should not be surprised that people bring different attitudes and beliefs to the table. Everyone in a group needs to have his oar in the water, to push the boat. When we form groups, we associate with people like ourselves. But people with different opinions are like gold. A true friend is someone whom you can argue and argue with and at the end say, where are we going to eat," Brandwein said.

People should value open communication and flexibility in changing of opinions, he told the gathering.

He advised the NSC athletes to be careful of how they respond to others in conversation, as body language can give negative vibes.

Brunswick National Family Bowling Day set for Labor Day

Brunswick Bowling and Billiards Corporation announced the second annual National Family Bowling Day to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA). Kids 12 and under can bowl free on Labor Day, Sept. 3. Donations for MDA will be accepted at all 111 Brunswick family bowling and recreation centers in the United States and Canada during this special family event.

Local venues include Deer Park Lanes, located at 21080 N. Rand Rd. in Lake Zurich and Lakehurst Bowl, located at 631 Lakehurst

Rd. in Waukegan.

"We wanted to create a fun, affordable holiday occasion for the whole family to enjoy together, while helping those affected by muscular dystrophy," said Warren Hardie, president, Brunswick Bowling and Billiards, Retail Division.

Kids must be accompanied by an adult to bowl free on National Family Bowling Day. Each Brunswick Center will offer special events and give away prizes throughout the day, creating a festive, entertaining atmosphere that can be enjoyed by all family members.

"By collecting donations at Brunswick's 111 centers in 23 states, Ontario and Quebec, we hope to make a difference in combating muscular dystrophy," said Hardie. More than one million people are affected by neuromuscular diseases. Muscular Dystrophy Association programs, which will benefit from this effort, are funded almost entirely from individual contributions. MDA receives no government grants.

TIP OF THE WEEK By Pro Joe Bitterman

at Bobby's Golf Center

• A BETTER WAY TO PRACTICE •

Many golfers express frustration when it comes to taking their game from the range to the course. A good practice routine can make this transition a whole lot more enjoyable. Instead of hitting shot after shot with the same club, which does not happen on the course, rotate your clubs after each shot. A great way to practice is imagining you are playing the course. Pick targets for a drive, then your approach, etc. This practice routine will give you the same sensation as if you are on the course and prepare you for your next round.

Job Searches Should Include Modern and Traditional Approaches

By Scott T. Fleischmann

In the marketing profession there is an old adage that there are only two ways to sell a product or a service. You can sell by price or by differentiation. The philosophy is that unless you can convince the buyer that your product is better than the competition (differentiation) you will need to compete on price, subsequently the profit will be less. This rule is applicable to the employment field as well because when you apply for a job you are selling your abilities and experience to potential new employers.

Although differentiation is considered the better option, in order to use it you need to have a keen understanding of your skills and experience, and an understanding of how those skills apply to the job marketplace. In addition, by definition, differentiation means that these ideas are contrary to trendy thought. Differentiation means being different, therefore it is contrary to the common thought patterns.

Here is an example of a contrary approach to selling. Before moving to the area where I currently live, I was selling a house at what I believed was a fair market price. Just prior to the end of the real estate sales contract I asked the agent what we would need to do to sell the house and he replied that we needed to lower the price. Although this is a commonly used real estate strategy, I had done my research and I believed that the house was fairly priced. When the listing contract expired, I decided to get input from other real estate agents.

In one of these interviews an agent asked me what I would do differently, stating that if we did everything we were currently doing we could expect the same result. I said that I would raise the asking price of the house. When she recovered from the shock, she decided that it might be worth considering a short-term contract. She didn't need a long-term contract because she sold the house in two days for more than the original listing price.

Before you go out and raise the price on the home that you have for sale, you need to understand that contrary logic is a tool that needs to be used carefully. Before making a decision to differentiate your product or services (like skills and experience) you need to understand yourself and your market well enough to know what will work. In addition, you need to know the risks and be willing to accept those risks.

In today's job market, I believe that one of the great untold truths is that the Internet is the only method for finding a job. The Internet is certainly a helpful tool and it should be used in many job searches. However, it would be a mistake to overlook the more traditional techniques like: working with your current employer to get the job that is best for you, hiring a resume writing service, researching the leads in local newspaper advertising, and utilizing employment agencies. Over the next few weeks we will be looking at the value of some of these techniques and how you can apply them to your job search.

Scott T. Fleischmann is a principal with Integrity Business Solutions Inc., a management consulting firm. He is responsible for the general management, human resources, information technology and sales consulting practices. He can be contacted through e-mail at the.scott@juno.com.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: I have had a job doing customer service for just under a month. I left a position I was in for 8 months in order to take this one for more money. While it is not my first choice for employment, it's a paycheck coming in. I told a couple of co-workers over our lunch break one day that I had not been thrilled with what I was doing but would stick it out for a while and maybe try something else down the road. A few days after that there was another person added to the department and then less than a week later I was released from the company. The reason I was given is that I didn't seem to be enjoying my job. They also told me not to have any contact with employees at the company after I leave the building. It leads me to believe that the co-workers that I was talking to told the supervisor my feelings about my long term plans and that was the reason I was let go. I feel I was let go for no good cause. Do you agree? T.L. - Lake Bluff

A: You are assuming they ratted you out which may be the case. Perhaps your feelings about your job came out in your attitude or work performance. A customer service department, more often than not, works as a team. In the short time that you have been employed there, the company has invested time and money in to making you one of the links of the chain that support this department. If another link in the chain were to be made aware that pretty soon you would be gone if something better came along, then the link would be broken. Why not mend the chain before it has a chance to break? As for the idea that you were let go without good cause... The cause was there. The company more than likely is thankful that the release came in less than 30 days so as to avoid unemployment compensation issues. Whether they found out through the co-workers or otherwise is not the issue here. You chose to be verbal about your feelings. Let's not lose sight of the fact that those other links found out about your lack of interest in the company, through you! I believe the saying, "Loose lips sink ships", may well apply here. Move on to something you really want, and should you decided to opt for something else along the way, you may want to keep your long range plans out of the office just in case. Good luck.

HOW MANY HOSPITALS IN LAKE COUNTY require every labor and delivery nurse
TO BE NATIONALLY CERTIFIED IN FETAL HEART MONITORING?

THERE'S JUST ONE.

Only Lake Forest Hospital requires such national certification. It's just another example of the rigorous standards everyone on our nursing staff must meet. And one more reason why last year more than 2,400 women from all over Lake County chose to have their babies at Lake Forest Hospital. To learn more, call (847) 535-6182. For everyone in Lake County, there's just one Lake Forest Hospital.
